SERIOUS MIXUP ON CANAL BIDS

Contractors Not Advised of Details Until Too Late.

IT CAUSES CRITICISM

Proposals for Dredging the Harbor at Colon Will Be Opened Today.

WORK WILL COST $7,000,000

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14.

There is likely to be severe criticism of the award of the first great contract for work on the Panama canal under the new commission, bids for which will be opened in this city tomorrow. The bids are for the work of dredging a deep water harbor at Colon on the Atlantic side of the isthmus. It is expected that this work will cost in the neighborhood of $7,000,000. The specifications were issued about five weeks ago, and advertisements were published calling for bids. There is, of course, very great rivalry among dredging companies and large contractors to participate in an undertaking of this magnitude, but many of the expectant bidders were nonplussed when they ascertained that the specifications required that the contractors bidding should first visit the scene of the work and make borings, and that samples of these borings should accompany the bids. Five weeks had been allowed for all this. It was manifestly impossible for any of those desiring to bid to send representatives to Colon, make borings, receive the result of these borings in this country and submit their bids in accordance with the requirements imposed by June 15, the day when the bids were to be opened.

Situation Further Complicated.

It would seem that all the arrangements for this work had been made by Mr. Wallace, the chief engineer of the canal, who is located on the isthmus, and the matter was further complicated by the fact that after the specifications had been printed and distributed to those who applied for copies, it was discovered that a full page had been omitted from the original copy, which had been mailed from Panama. When this error was discovered the missing page was cabled by Chief Engineer Wallace from the isthmus to Washington, copies were struck off and the missing matter was mailed to each of the would-be bidders so that each would have a complete copy.

Many protests from persons desiring to compete for the Colon dredging were received at the office at the Panama commission in the Mills building, this city. Some of the contractors expressed the fear that more fortunate competitors had obtained an inkling in advance of the work contemplated at Colon, and would have the advantage of more time in which to make their borings and other investigations. Others claimed that if they made any bid at all, it would be absolutely blind, because they had not been able to ascertain what portion of the work to be done was coral, what clay and what sand and mud.

Shonts Listens to Complaints.

So many of these complaints were received that Mr. Shonts, chairman of the commission, early today decided that the bids would not be opened tomorrow, and more time would be given. In the meantime a cablegram had been sent to Mr. Wallace, and late this afternoon the statement was made that there had been a reversal of policy and that Mr. Wallace's original plan would be carried out. This means that the bids will be opened tomorrow, and the result will be awaited with great interest by those who are watching the operations of the reorganized commission.

TOO MUCH GIRL IN THEM.

Uncle Sam Orders Destruction of Snap-Shots Taken of the President's Hunting Party.

DENVER, COL., June 14.—(Special.)—The government has ordered that hundreds of snapshots of President Roosevelt's party, taken while it was returning from the hunting trip, be destroyed. The pictures were made by residents of Glenwood Springs.

Gertrude Dunn of Colorado Springs, a very pretty young lady, joined the party as it was nearing the springs, and her presence has caused the government order to destroy all negatives in which she appeared. She wore a tan riding habit, the skirt of which lacked many inches of touching the ground. And she rode astride.

FIGHT ENDS IN STABBING.

Murder May Result from Quarrel Between McKees Rocks Foreigners.

Thomas Gullivitch, a Croatian, and Ygnac Zdzumos were arguing in a saloon in Lewicki street, McKees Rocks, last night and were ejected. The quarrel was renewed on the street and Gullivitch knocked Zdzumos down. Gullivitch walked away, returning in a few minutes. Without warning he rushed at Zdzumos and cut him three times, in the chest, on the right shoulder and almost severed one of the fingers of his right hand.

Gullivitch ran to the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad and boarded a freight train with pursuers at his heels. Officer John Colon captured him. Zdzumos was sent to the McKees Rocks hospital, where it was stated late last night that his chances of recovery were very doubtful.

Pittsburgh Company's Tipple Burns.

WASHINGTON PA., June 14.—(Special.)—The tipple at the McGovern mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, north of Washington, was destroyed by fire this morning, entailing a loss of $3,000. The blaze is supposed to have originated from an engine spark. Traffic on the Chartiers Valley railroad was blocked for five hours.

BABES, NOT POLES, OCCUPY HOLES

WATER SPOILS A UNIFORM

Workmen for the Central District and Printing Telegraph Company yesterday afternoon failed to erect any telephone poles for their new line in Hermitage street. They scooped out six holes where poles were to be placed, but Mrs. Patrick J. Donohoe placed one of her children in each hole and the workmen were foiled. The police were called to pull the youngsters from their cells and little Bridget Donohoe, with a garden hose, turned a stream of water out of the second story window, causing both the bluecoats and the telephone employes to beat a hasty retreat. Mrs. Donohoe holds the fort and it is probable that the poles will not be erected.

"If the good Lord had sent a score of children to bless me, it's every one I'd place in the holes that deface my property," declared Mrs. Donohoe last night. "They want to stretch wires all around my house and I'll not let them do it. No gentleman would act as these people behaved before a lone and defenseless woman today."

Mrs. Donohoe owns the property at Hermitage street and Murtland avenue. Yesterday when the gang of workmen arrived and commenced digging, Mrs. Donohoe protested. The workmen continued digging and as fast as a hole was scooped out Mrs. Donohoe dropped one of her children into it.

Nora occupied the first hole, Bridget was placed in the second, Patrick jumped into the third, Michael crawled into the fourth and the fifth was taken by James. In the dilemma the police were called and Capt. Jack Callahan attempted to negotiate peace. As a diplomat he was a raw failure. Bridget was dragged out, and when she freed herself she ran upstairs.

"I dare you to put one of your poles in on my little ones," shouted Mrs. Donohoe.

The challenge was taken and the big pole was hauled up. The sky was clear and the sun was shining, but despite this it began to rain. The policemen and the workmen looked up and saw a cloudburst coming from the nozzle of the garden hose which Bridget held with unerring aim. The captain had on his new uniform and ran clear into the next block. The police followed his example and the workmen about the same moment thought they heard the 5 o'clock whistle blowing away off somewhere and they likewise quit. The holes were filled up and Mrs. Donohoe is awaiting developments.

DUCHESS' JEWELS RECOVERED

Watchman and Accomplice Had Robbed Her Grace of Westminster.

Latter Reveals Hiding Place.

CAMBRIDGE, ENG., June 14.—All the jewels of the duchess of Westminster, worth $30,000, of which she was robbed last month, have been recovered. They were buried in a field two miles out of town.

A former night watchman at Grosvenor house who was arrested in London confessed to the theft and Scotland Yard detectives came here today and arrested an accomplice, who conducted them to the place where the jewelry was hidden.

GUNSHU PASS, MANCHURIA, June 14.—The Japanese have forced the advance posts of the Russian left beyond the Kaoche river and are occupying the heights on the north of the river. A heavy force seems to be behind this movement. Field Marshal Oyama is ready for a general offensive.

BEAVERS MAKES OFFER TO CONFESS HIS GUILT

Will Make the Plea on Condition That He Gets a Light Sentence.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 14.—George W. Beavers, formerly of the postoffice department, who is under indictment here with former State Senator Green of New York for conspiracy to defraud the government, has offered to plead guilty to the charge provided he is given a light sentence. Whether his offer will be accepted remains to be determined by President Roosevelt, to whom Attorney General Moody will carry the question. The act of A. W. Mechen in pleading guilty to the charge of conspiracy made against him in the Crawford case, which is still being tried here, has evidently had its effect upon Beavers. Officials of the department of justice decline to discuss the case.

Whether or not Beavers will plead guilty will make no difference in the indictment against former Senator Green. It will be necessary for the government to prove the conspiracy charge against him. It was charged that he conspired with Beavers and others to defraud the government through purchase of hundreds of Doremus cancelling machines, many of which were found worthless. The inventor, W. D. Doremus, was also named in the indictment. Mr. Beavers was indicted eight times in this and other cases.

E. W. Ambrose, who represents Mr. Beavers here, is credited with saying he is sure Mr. Beavers will plead guilty. It is understood that Mr. Beavers has paid out more than $20,000 in his efforts to avoid extradition to Washington after he was indicted.

TRAIN HITS AUTO PARTY.

President of Rider Engine Company and Wife Are Killed, and Two Sons Fatally Injured.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 14.—An automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Sayer of Englewood, N. J., and their two sons was struck by an Erie train near Goshen today. Mr. and Mrs. Sayer was instantly killed and their sons were probably fatally injured. The chauffeur saved his life by jumping before the train struck the automobile. Mr. Sayer was president of Rider Engine Company. Mr. Sayer was sitting on the front seat of the automobile alongside the chauffeur as the crossing was reached. It is stated by witnesses of the tragedy that several persons called to the party not to attempt to cross the tracks ahead of the train. They declared that Mr. Sayer, however, ordered the chauffeur to proceed.

ACCUSES TREASURER LEIB.

Lueschner Charges U. S. Officials With Over-Assessing Candidates—Legislators Subpoenaed.

POTTSVILLE, June 14.—It developed tonight that nearly 70 members of the legislature and politicians are subpoenaed in the suit brought by N. P. Lueschner against Assistant United States Treasurer W. S. Leib at Philadelphia, and a resident of Schuylkill county. Lueschner alleges that Leib is assessing candidates for Republican county nominations extortionate registration fees in order to create a fund to be expended by Leib.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK TRAIN; TWO MEN ARE ARRESTED

CHARLESTON, W. VA., June 14.—(Special.)—An attempt to wreck a passenger train on the Kanawha & Michigan railroad at Armours creek last night was frustrated. Watchman Adkins, who found a horseshoe tied securely to the rail at a sharp curve, where two years ago a passenger wreck occurred, in which a number of passengers were injured. Sam and Andrew Harrison were arrested today accused of the attempt and were held for the grand jury on the testimony of eye witnesses.

New Airship a Success.

BERLIN, June 14.—Count Zeppelin has constructed a new airship with which he has made a successful trial trip, sailing from Manzell, on the north shore of Lake Constance, to Romanshorn, on the south shore of the lake, in three hours.

FLAMES DAMAGE PLANING MILL

SCANDRETT DIRECTS FIREMEN

Fire caused $15,000 damage to the plant of the Eagle planing mill at Anderson and East Robinson streets, Allegheny, last evening. The blaze was one of the most spectacular on the North Side for over a year and was plainly visible from Liberty avenue and Ninth street, Pittsburgh. Several thousand people watched the progress of the flames. The plant was a three-story frame structure, fronting 80 feet in Anderson street and 120 feet in East Robinson street.

The fire was discovered by Policeman Michael Redman, who saw the flames pouring out of a third-floor window in the East Robinson street side. He sent in an alarm, and three minutes after it was sounded the firemen had a stream of water pouring on the building. Four minutes after the first alarm was sent in Peter Schatzman, acting superintendent of the bureau of fire, sent in a second and third alarm. Director Thomas B. Scandrett arrived at 8 o'clock and sent in a fourth alarm, which called out 12 fire companies.

Director Has Many Duties.

Director Scandrett at once took charge of the fire fighters and distributed the men and hose lines to points where the most effective work could be done, while Chief Schatzman looked after the details. Director Scandrett took an active interest at the fire because of the peculiar conditions which at present prevail in the department of public safety. The head of the bureau of fire, Chief John K. Hunter, is under suspension, while Melvin H. Campbell, chief of the police bureau, is also on the suspended list, and John Glenn, who has been acting in Campbell's place, is ill at his home. This condition of affairs puts the active duties of both bureaus on the shoulders of the director.

The fire broke out in the engine room, on the south side of the plant. From there the flames, their way made easy by the shavings and wood scattered about the floors, spread to the second and third floors of the plant.

Neighbors Prepared to Move.

Within an hour after the fire was discovered the firemen had it under control and all danger to nearby buildings was removed. Many of the occupants of

WILL HARNESS DAM IN RIVER

License Is Granted to H. P. Dilworth and His Associates.

OTHERS WILL APPLY

Riparian Owners Entitled to Power Created by Government Locks in River.

WANTED FOR ELECTRIC PLANT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 14.

According to an order issued by Secretary of War Taft this afternoon, the water power created by government dams, built as aids to navigation, is the property of riparian owners. The only limitation to the rights of owners of river frontage in using water power is that they must not interfere with navigation of the improvement of a navigable stream. This limitation not only covers the present improvement of a stream, but also precludes the assessment of damages against the government on account of future improvements of the river.

The occasion for issuing this order was the application of H. P. Dilworth, Charles A. Jamison and S. H. Robinson for the right to use the water power created by dam No. 3 in the Allegheny river. Mr. Dilworth and his associates propose to utilize the water power in an electric plant to be located on the north bank of the river. Aside from this party it is said that there are a number of other concerns that are interested in the ruling of the secretary, and will make similar applications for power.

Before rendering his decision the secretary referred the matter to the legal department, which submitted a lengthy opinion upon the legal questions involved, and it is upon this that it was decided to give to Mr. Dilworth and his associates the license to use the water power created at dam No. 3. Before installing his plant Mr. Dilworth will be required to submit his plans to Chief Engineer Mackenzie, in order to demonstrate to the war department that his use of the water will not obstruct navigation.

It is held by the war department that the fact that a stream is made a public highway does not divest private ownership in soil to the middle of the river. As long as a riparian owner does not interfere with navigation he has license to divert the water from a navigable stream. That the government builds a dam for the purpose of aiding navigation does not necessarily vest in it the water power rights created by the improvement. This ruling is contrary to the popular belief that congress alone has the power to grant water power rights at government dams. L. W. STRAYER.

PEACE ACTION NEARS FOCUS

Belligerents Bend Energies Towards Selection of a Meeting Place.

PARIS IS OUT OF IT

Preference Is for Washington, The Hague and Geneva in Order Named.

ARMISTICE WILL FOLLOW

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Gradually the negotiations for peace in the far east are nearing a focus. The one point to which the energies of those directly concerned now are being directed is the choice of a place for the holding of the conference of the plenipotentiaries of the belligerent powers.

It is known officially that three cities are under consideration by Russia and Japan. Named in the order of the likelihood of their final selection, they are Washington, The Hague and Geneva. Thus far no decision has been reached.

Paris and London have been eliminated from the equation. It is understood the Russian government objects to an Asiatic city, its preference being for some European capital. After objecting to the holding of the conference in Paris, the Japanese government expressed a willingness to consider other places which afforded adequate facilities, although it is assured Japan's preference would be some far eastern city, practically within the theater of war.

Washington Has Best Show.

Finally, however, the selection seems to have narrowed down to the three cities named. Objections have been made by the Japanese to The Hague, but it is not believed these objections are fundamental or unalterable. However, as the situation now is, Washington appears to be the city most likely to be selected. It can be said on authority that if the conference is held in the United States it will be at Washington. No other place in this country has been considered seriously.

An announcement of the selection of the place of holding the conference is expected within a few days. It may come tomorrow and it may not come for several days. Thus far President Roosevelt has acted merely as an intermediary between Russia and Japan in the conduct of the negotiations regarding the selection of a place of conference. He is in no sense of the term an arbiter in the matter and, at this time, there is no probability that he will be the arbiter.

It is expected that Russia and Japan will be able to reach an agreement without the assistance of an arbiter. Should a deadlock ensue—a condition that is regarded as quite unlikely—it is not improbable that the president may be requested by the two powers to name the place of conference.

Armistice the First Duty.

After the selection of the place of meeting of the plenipotentiaries, the two governments will name those who are to represent them, respectively, at the conference. Then an armistice between the contending armies in the field will be arranged, and, pending the result of the peace conference, the great armies facing each other in Manchuria will lie on their arms awaiting the final signal from their governments.

Russia's formal response to President Roosevelt's appeal to the far eastern belligerents for a cessation of hostilities has been communicated to the Tokyo government by the president. The note written by Count Lamsdorff, by direction of Emperor Nicholas, and handed by the minister of foreign affairs to Ambassador Meyer at St. Petersburg, was placed, in turn, in the hands of Minister Takahira by the president and transmitted by Mr. Takahira to Tokyo.

Diplomats Are Reassured.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 15.—Every foreign minister and ambassador now in St. Petersburg attended a reception given by Foreign Minister Lamsdorff yesterday afternoon. Several diplomats who displayed some unnecessary nervousness earlier in the day over the concluding clause of the Russian foreign office's communication to the Gazette (saying the imperial government has "no object in principle" to the meeting of the plenipotentiaries proposed by President Roosevelt "if the Japanese government expresses a desire therefor") were reassured after talking with the foreign minister and learning that the communication did not reproduce the exact text of the note.

Ambassador Meyer, after a cordial interview with Count Lamsdorff, which lasted 10 minutes, presented Brig.-Gen. Thomas H. Barry of the United States army, Capt. Sydney A. Cloman of the general staff of the United States army, and Col. John Van R. Hoff of the medical department of the United States army, who are on their way to join the Russian army at the front. Count Lamsdorff will arrange an audience of the emperor for these officers before their departure.

Russia Prefers Paris.

The foreign office is in constant communication with Count Cassini, the ambassador at Washington, but beyond the statement that nothing has been arranged it vouchsafes no information. The chances of the meeting taking place in the United States, however, seem to have vanished. The choice of Russia is Paris, owing to the desire to have M. Nelidoff, ambassador at Paris, who participated in the making of the treaty of San Stefano, as one of the plenipotentiaries, but if Paris should not be acceptable to Japan, Russia is disposed to the selection of The Hague. The principal objection to Manchuria is the time which would be necessary to get the negotiators to the scene.

It is understood the first task of the plenipotentiaries will be the conclusion of a limited armistice. This must come soon in order to avoid a general engagement, which reports from the front indicate that Field Marshal Oyama is already launching.

The court at the end of the week will remove from Tsarskoe-Selo to Peterhof, where the emperor and his immediate family will occupy the little palace for the remainder of the summer. This palace is situated in the corner of the vast park where there are famous fountains rivaling those of Versailles, which with the military music every afternoon and evening atract immense crowds. The palace, however, is tucked away in a corner of the park, and as it is surrounded by high walls, is inaccessible to the public.

Gets Takahira's Message.

TOKYO, June 14.—The report of the Japanese minister at Washington, M. Takahira, telling of his interviews with President Roosevelt and announcing the proposal that the peace plenipotentiaries of Russia and Japan meet in Paris and the appointment of M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador to France, as Russia's chief plenipotentiary, was received today.

Japan will refuse to have the meeting take place in Paris because it is the capital of Russia's ally and also on account of the great distance from Japan and the delay involved. It is expected Japan will propose that the plenipotentiaries meet at some point close to the theater of war. The Japanese plenipotentiary has not yet been selected.

PARIS, June 14.—The highest Russian authorities say concerning the Tokyo dispatch that M. Nelidoff would probably be the Russian plenipotentiary, that no such appointment has yet been communicated here.

PEKIN, June 14.—In German and other circles here the prospects of peace between Japan and Russia are considered remote. It is supposed Japan intends to inflict a final and crushing blow upon the Russian army in Manchuria before considering any proposition for peace.

WITTE IS PESSIMISTIC.

President of Czar's Cabinet Will Have Nothing to Do With Peace Negotiations He Says.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 14.—The Slovo this morning published a sensational interview with M. Witte, president of the committee of ministers. Every word was black with pessimism. The statement made it clear that Foreign Minister Lamsdorff, for one, is opposed to having anything to do with peace negotiations.

Asked concerning the report that he is going abroad charged with a mission in regard to the negotiations for peace, M. Witte replied: "I certainly will not go on such a mission. I shall do everything to avoid it. I do not see that affairs have yet taken a turn which makes my services desirable. I will say more—even now I cannot observe a definite desire to change the direction of the current. The bed of the on-rushing stream remains the same. Only the obstacles in its path grow more numerous and foaming rapids indicate the danger points.

"As for peace, Japan will not even be willing to discuss a basis which would not insure peace for at least 50 years. Her conditions have also considerably increased. She will, of course, agree to open negotiations on her own soil without mediators with a person whom Russia will clothe with special powers. Herein lie the real source of the rumors originating in the Berlin and London cabinets about my trip.

PRIEST COMES HERE TO APPEAL TO BISHOP

New Castle Catholic Clergyman's Life and Destruction of His Church Threatened.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW CASTLE, June 14.—The Rev. Father Sulic, pastor of St. Mark's Polish Catholic church, went to Pittsburgh this afternoon to tender his resignation to the Rev. J. F. Regis Canevin, bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese, and ask for his transfer to another field, fearing he will be killed if he remains here.

The Rev. Father Sulic has for the last six months received anonymous letters threatening him bodily harm. These have been becoming more and more violent in their tone until the last one threatened him with death by dynamite, and that his home would be blown up if he remains. St. Mary's church was organized four years ago by the Rev. Father Pawlewski and has been in constant turmoil. It is composed jointly of Slavs and Poles and their racial prejudices have been responsible for the greater part of the trouble. The Poles first refused to permit the title of the church property to be placed in the name of the bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese, and twice the Rev. Pawlewski was forced, during his two years' stay here, to appeal to the sheriff for protection from personal violence. He was finally transferred to Latrobe. The Rev. Father Sulic was brought here from Little Rock, Ark., to try and bring peace to the disturbed congregation, but has met with no better success.

Recently some of the Polish members left St. Mary's congregation and founded SS. Cyril and Methodius Independent Catholic church, for which they secured a court charter. Members of St. Mary's Polish church later asked Judge Porter to annul the charter of the independent church and its members were threatened with excommunication from the orthodox Catholic church, unless they left St. Cyril's, which caused many to abandon the new congregation.

Postmaster Is Reappointed.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(Special.)—The president today appointed Solomon G. Krepps to be postmaster at Cadwallader, Fayette county, Pa. This is simply a reappointment as Mr. Krepps has been serving in this capacity since January, 1902. His office was the presidential chair last April, which required an appointment by the president.

MR. FRICK TALKS ABOUT EQUITABLE

Says There Should Be No Mystery in the Personnel of the Ryan Syndicate.

WOULD LIKE TO SEE REFORMS

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, June 14.

H. C. Frick, who is attending the commencement exercises at Princeton, where his son was graduated today, was interviewed by a reporter for The Gazette regarding the present situation of the Equitable Life affairs. He spoke as follows:

When the board failed to adopt the report, or any part of it, of the committee appointed by the board, my connection with the Equitable, except as a policy-holder, ended. I should like the new management to continue the investigation as outlined in the committee's letter of April 8 to Mr. Alexander.

Mr. Ryan's purchase of the Hyde stock relieved the situation, and will further relieve it if he gives the names of all the policyholders who joined him in his philanthropic action. There should be no mystery about it.

The names of the men selected by him as trustees inspire confidence. A board selected by them will undoubtedly elect officers who will soon gain the confidence of the public and policy-holders by instituting such reforms as indicated in our report, and attending strictly to the business of the life insurance.

According to authentic information the identity can be disclosed of at least one member of the Ryan syndicate which has bought a controlling amount of Equitable stock from James Hazen Hyde. R. A. C. Smith, prominent as a traction and gas man, is this syndicate member. Mr. Smith has been associated in business deals with Thomas F. Ryan on many occasions.

The trustees of the Equitable Trust Company today declared the regular 2½ per cent quarterly dividend. The surplus and undivided profits now closely approximate $10,000,000. It is understood that when this point is reached the question of increased dividends will be considered.

FLAMES DAMAGE A MILL

the houses had packed their goods and were ready to move on notice, but this proved to be unnecessary. Some of the houses and their furnishings, however, were slightly damaged by water. At 9:30 o'clock the fire had been extinguished.

The Eagle planing mill is owned by M. Simon's Sons, Charles W. Simon being manager of the plant. The members of the firm are Charles W. Simon, John H. Simon, Harry E. Simon and William Simon. All the members of the firm reside in Bellevue and were called to the plant by telephone, arriving after the fire was under control. William Simon said he left the office at 6 p. m. and was the last in the place, no watchman being kept on duty at night. Everything was safe then, he said, so far as he knew.

Charles W. Simon said the building and equipment and stock was valued at $30,000, while the insurance on the property was $20,000, as follows: Stock, $7,500; building, $5,000; machinery, $7,500. The insurance was placed through D. B. Aliewelt of 305 Fourth avenue, Pittsburgh.

Loss Estimated at $15,000.

Mr. Simon estimated the loss at $15,000, but said it may be higher when the plant is inspected today. He said that at present the firm employed 35 men in the plant, in which a lot of finished material was stored. The firm made a specialty of cabinet work and a lot of finished wood to be used in improvements being made in the detective bureau in Allegheny city hall was delivered there yesterday afternoon.

The first floor of the plant was occupied by machinery and lumber; the second by machinery and dressed lumber, and the third by finished work and stock. The plant was erected and occupied by Philips & Thompson in 1865. In 1871 it was purchased by M. Simon, who died a few years ago. He was succeeded by his four sons, who now conduct the business. The plant was badly damaged by fire about 20 years ago.

During the fire a thief snatched a chatelaine purse from the hand of a woman who was watching the fire from Anderson and East Lacock streets. Several men in the crowd saw the man's act and ran after him. The thief in his hurry to get away dropped the purse. He escaped.

The fire engines and hose lines closed Anderson street and the traction cars which use the Ninth street bridge to reach Allegheny, were sent by way of the Sixth street bridge and Federal street. By 10 o'clock the cars were again using Anderson street.

GARBAGE NOT REMOVED.

Citizens Allege That Company Does Not Live Up to Ordinance.

Protests from citizens are coming into the bureau of health concerning the collection of garbage, and it is asserted that the company which has the contract for removing the garbage, is not calling at houses for the stuff the specified number of times every week.

In the first 20 wards, except in a portion of the Nineteenth, the garbage must be removed three times a week, and this, it is asserted, is not being done. The ordinance authorizes the director of public safety to impose a forfeit of $10 a day upon the company, if it fails to remove garbage six hours after notification.

CITY SOLICITOR SUSTAINS MAYOR

Gives Opinion That Councils May Repeal Philadelphia's Rapid Transit Franchises.

TWELVE EMPLOYES DISMISSED

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Press Building.
PHILADELPHIA, PA., June 14.

While the street was today full of rumors as to arrests in connection with the gas and traction fight, none had been reported at a late hour tonight. The situation, however, is tense and sensational developments are expected tomorrow. The railway committee meets in the morning and the councils in the afternoon.

City Solicitor Kinsey has prepared an opinion for the committee which was made public today. He stands with Mayor Weaver, holding councils have the right to pass the repealers annulling the five franchises granted the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, which were vetoed by the mayor, but passed notwithstanding his disapproval. It is stated by the solicitor in part:

"Councils as legislative bodies have the right ordinarily to repeal any ordinances which they may have passed. Where, however, consent has been given by them to the exercise of a franchise by a passenger railway company and the railway company has entered into possesion of the streets or has done some act or incurred expense in carrying into effect the privilege or franchise so granted, councils cannot lawfully withdraw or revoke their consent by a repeal of the ordinance conferring it, since to do so would be in effect to take away or destroy the property rights of the railway company."

Will Hold Councils to Task.

It is assumed by the solicitor that the traction company has not yet incurred such "expense" as to justify the claim of vested rights.

Should the committee favorably report the repealers, councils could not pass them finally tomorrow, the day fixed for the summer adjournment. Mayor Weaver will insist that councils do not adjourn and says that if they do he will call them in special session until all pending legislation is disposed of. Should the mayor's wishes be disregarded it will at once develop whether the organization or himself controls a majority of councils.

It has been decided that when the street railways committee meets tomorrow it shall convene in a small committee room. This is done to avoid the exciting scenes that characterized yesterday's meeting.

The city park superintendents and ten employes of the electrical bureau were today dropped from the pay rolls, making a total of 77 men discharged during the current week.

Bureau Chief Resigns.

John W. Hill, who for the past five years has been chief of the filtration bureau under the department of public works, has resigned that position, but no official announcement of that fact will be made by either Mayor Weaver or Director Acker for the present, in the hope that Mr. Hill may be induced to reconsider his determination. Mr. Hill's letter of resignation was accompanied by a similar communication from his son, Henry C. Hill, who is the first assistant engineer in the bureau, at a salary of $3,000. Chief Hill's salary is $17,000 a year.

The committee of 70 held a mass meeting tonight. Speeches opposing the traction ordinances were made by Rudolph Blankenburg, Councilman W. H. Brown and others. Resolutions were adopted requesting citizens to attend tomorrow's meetings; favoring a "generation time limit" on franchises to be sold to the highest and best bidder; demanding repeal of the act passed by the last legislature, permitting street railway companies to hold charters 50 years without doing any work on the streets covered, and advising the mayor to investigate the charter and franchise laws of other states.

Much interest is felt in the hearing of Councilman Caven, charged with being interested in city contracts which takes place at 10:30 tomorrow morning. Friends of Caven assert he will bring action against the mayor and others, charging them with conspiracy to ruin him financially. There is no substantial authority indicating such action will be instituted. Ex-Judge Gordon has issued subpoenas for Senator J. F. McNichol and his brother, in the Caven case. They are ordered to produce all books and papers bearing upon the sand contracts of the filtration work.

Senator McNichol, who yesterday received orders to stop work on the boulevards, was today directed to proceed, a reservation being made as to a certain piece of macadam work.

CHESTER D. POTTER.

RUNS OFF WITH KEYS.

Chain Factory Watchman Is Stricken With Dementia and Locks Up Factory.

John Kapolka, a Pole, aged 46, caused anxiety in the plant of the Lanz Chain Company, South Twenty-ninth street, yesterday morning because he had run off during the night with the keys of the plant while engaged as a watchman.

Kapola has been ill recently and returning to work Tuesday night was made assistant to the watchman. He was seized with dementia, and believing some one with a gun was after him, locked up the plant and started off on a run. He was later captured in West Homestead and is being held by the South Side police for disposition.

CITY LOSES $1,000 THROUGH BROKEN SEWER

No Relief for Sufferers Whose Cellars Are Flooded in Hump District.

Six Pittsburgh fire engines this morning will cease puffing in Old avenue and the centrifugal pump established by the bureau of highways and sewers, will be called upon to pump out the flooded sewers in that region. It will be a week before the broken sewer can be repaired. Over $1,000 has been spent by the bureau of fire in the work, exclusive of the repairs which will be necessary to the engines.

On Sunday there was a lot of glamor when seven glittering engines worked to pump out the flooded cellars. Now it is all changed. The engines are covered with soot and grease. The firemen look like as many coal diggers and are in a bad humor. The engines are worn out and in need of repairs. The sewer is still filled with water. Supt. Nicewaner could not say how soon the break could be repaired.

The Ohio & Pittsburgh Milk Company is losing $1,000 a day on account of the closing of the ice plant, the ice cream factory and its electric plant. The J. & J. B. Milholland Company is little better situated, while the branch house of the Consolidated Ice Company, in the Hermes building, has been obliged to shut down.

DRISCOLL TELLS SECRETS OF STRIKE SETTLEMENTS

Appears Before Chicago Grand Jury Investigating Labor Troubles—Non-Unionists Asphyxiated.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 14.—John C. Driscoll, the much-desired witness in the bribery investigation conducted by the state's attorney and the grand jury in connection with strike troubles in Chicago, appeared before the inquisitors this afternoon for three hours. The proceedings were kept secret, but it was said Driscoll did not tell all the startling stories of corruption accredited to him yesterday. At the adjournment of the jury tonight Assistant State Attorney Fake said he was well pleased with the results thus far obtained from Driscoll.

Before going before the jury Driscoll was in conference with State's Attorney Healy. At this meeting Driscoll agreed to tell what he knew of strikes, their beginning, their causes and their settlements and the amounts of money which were, he declared, paid to various labor leaders.

J. H. Raymond and William Parry, who came here from Detroit to take places of striking teamsters, were found asphyxiated in a room at a small hotel on Clark street today. Raymond was dead and Parry is in such a critical condition that he will probably die. The gas had been turned on in the room occupied by the young men, but whether by accident or as a result of a suicide mania is unknown.

LUTHERANS OPEN GENERAL SYNOD

Delegates from Throughout the Country Gather in Bethany Church, East End.

SECRETARY PREACHES SERMON

The 42nd biennial convention of the general synod of the Lutheran church in America opened in Bethany church, North Highland avenue and Kirkwood street, last night with a good proportion of the 275 delegates attending. Among those present was Judge Peter S. Grosscup of Chicago, who represents the Chicago synod, while among the additional delegates expected today is United States Senator Charles Dick of Ohio.

Owing to the death of Prof. S. J. Wolf, D. D., LL.D., president of the synod, which occurred five months ago, the convention sermon was preached last night by the Rev. Dr. Harlan K. Fenner of Louisville, Ky., secretary of the synod. The sermon followed an address of welcome by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. John Wiedly.

Dr. Fenner spoke on "The Lutheran Church as a Spiritual Utility." He said that the dogmatic position of the Lutheran church is settled, and that the fierce handling of its creed for three centuries had shown the granite on which it stands. He declared that man came upon the earth as a wanderer and has aggravated his condition morally and mentally by choosing to continue his wanderings heedless of all warning. Dr. Fenner declared that the Lutheran church had been hated, abused, and falsely presented sufficiently to have died a thousand times had she any blood in her veins other than that of the Redeemer.

The convention will remain in session 10 days and will meet morning, afternoon and evening. Important matters of church law are to be decided, prominent among which will be the question of church rule on divorce. Following a devotional service at 8 o'clock this morning, the business of the convention will begin, and during the day new officers will be elected by secret ballot without nomination. The Rev. Dr. W. S. Freas of Baltimore will be acting president of the synod until a new president is elected.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS YELL WILDLY FOR "JOE" WHEELER

Sight of Old Commander Sweeps Convention Off Its Feet—Gen. Lee Says, "We Go to Our Graves Feeling We Were Right."

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LOUISVILLE, KY., June 14.—For the second time in five years, the United Confederate veterans and auxiliary organizations today gathered in Louisville for their annual reunion. Mayor Charles P. Grainger extended the city's welcome, ann General Simon Bolivar Buckner welcomed the veterans on behalf of the Confederates in the state at large. The venerable soldier and statesman was given "three cheers and a tiger."

General Young was about to introduce Gen. Stephen D. Lee, the commander-in-chief, when Gen. "Joe" Wheeler, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Carrie Peyton Wheeler, the sponsor for the south, and her maid of honor were seen making their way to the stage. The chairman lost control of the convention instantly, and the veterans cheered themselves hoarse over the sight of their famous leader. Gen. Wheeler acknowledged the greeting in a brief speech.

A remarkable demonstration greeted the presentation of Gen. Stephen D. Lee, the commander-in-chief. The veterans rose and cheered the commanding officer loudly, while hats, canes and handkerchiefs filled the air. Gen. Lee will use in presiding over the deliberations of the convention, a gavel made from wood found in Fort Sumter at the opening of the war. In his address today he said:

We come together because we love the past—because our lives have been linked together by a great experience—by the richest, deepest experience that has come to any generation of Americans; by a common story so rich in heroism, in sacrifice, in patriotism, that everything else we remember grows cheap when we think of the confederacy. "Out there in Appomattox," said Henry W. Grady, "where the Lord God Almighty laid upon every ragged gray cap the sword of His imperishable knighthood." Instead of the gray caps, I see today only the gray heads; but the same knightly hearts are beating still. When we meet together we renew those great memories, these imperishable friendships. We go to our graves feeling that we were right.

CAPTIVES OF UNCLE SAM'S SHREWD OFFICERS

John G. Whitney. James Stewart. John M. Reed.

MAN SHAKES HIS HEAD; COSTS GIRL 10 MONTHS

Strange Confession of John M. Reed, Charged With Raising Money Orders.

That there is honor among thieves, or that they possess the commonest virtues of mankind is disproved by the confession made yesterday by John M. Reed to Postoffice Inspector Frank A. O'Brien.

Reed, with James Stewart and John Whitney, was arrested on Tuesday on a charge of altering money orders, raising them from a few cents to a number of dollars. Reed told O'Brien before he met his fellow prisoners he was working the same swindle with a young woman, his wife, he claims. So soon as they passed a raised money order they would go to another town, where they would enjoy the proceeds of the fraud.

About two months ago the woman was arrested in Cincinnati while trying to pass a raised order. She was convicted. Before passing sentence the judge told the woman he would make her sentence but three months if she would disclose the name of her companion. Reed was in the court room and when he heard the judge's promise he shook his head at the woman to warn her not to reveal his name. The woman refused to give the court the information and she is now serving 13 months in the Cincinnati workhouse.

Information was made against the three men before United States Commissioner Lindsay yesterday, charging them with altering a money order on the Buffalo postoffice. The order was taken by a downtown department store in payment for a raincoat, the men receiving the difference between the apparent value of the order and the price of the coat. The men will be tried in Erie at the next term of the United States district court. Reed has studied medicine. The other men are barbers.

LAST WEEK TO BORROW.

Popular Arrangement at Library to Be Temporarily Discontinued.

The special privilege of borrowing a number of books for the summer which is now being extended at the Carnegie library is being eagerly taken advantage of by borrowers, more than twice as many books having already been issued in this way as were issued altogether last summer under a similar arrangement. Patrons of the library are asked to take note of the fact that this opportunity ceases on Saturday of this week, and that after that date books cannot be borrowed for home use from the Central library until the loan department is installed in its new quarters. On Monday the south entrance to the building will be closed and the main entrance open, though not yet finished.

ANNIVERSARY OF FLAG ATTRACTS LITTLE NOTICE

Flag day, commemorating the One Hundredth and Twenty-eighth anniversary of the Stars and Stripes, was observed nationaly yesterday, although the observance in Pittsburgh was not a very enthusiastic one. Here and there the flags fluttered from the top of public and office buildings, while an occasional passerby would attract special attention by showing his colors on his coat lapel. The first flag was made in Philadelphia in 1777 and was flown by John Paul Jones, whose body is about to be returned to America for reinterment on this soil.

Another Week of "Johnny."

Last night another large audience was in evidence at the Nixon to attest substantially the fact that light opera, properly produced, is appreciated in Pittsburgh during the summer. "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" was given the same cordial reception that was accorded its initial presentation last Monday evening. It has been decided to keep "Johnny" on for another week, concluding June 24. A magnificent production of Gilbert & Sullivan's "Mikado" is promised for the week of June 26. Sale opens this morning.

TOBACCO MAGNATE MUST ANSWER JURY QUESTIONS

Secretary of American Company Is Fined for Contempt of Court and Given Into Custody of Officers.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 14.—William H. McAllister, secretary of the American Tobacco Company, was adjudged guilty of contempt in the United States circuit court today for having refused an answer questions in connection with the investigation of the so-called tobacco trust. McAllister was asked questions concerning the business affairs of his company. Judge Lacombe fined McAllister $5 and ordered that he be taken into custody until such time as he purges himself of the contempt by answering the questions and producing the books and papers of his company. McAllister will appeal to the United States supreme court.

Assistant United States District Attorney Henry W. Taft, who is conducting the investigation, informed Mr. McAllister, so the papers in the case say, that the American Tobacco Company was charged with having conspired with the Imperial Tobacco Company of Great Britain, to monopolize and restrain trade in leaf tobacco, chewing and smoking tobacco and cigarettes.

ISSUES QUO WARRANTO AGAINST NEW COMPANY

Two Like Proceedings Concerning Traction Route in Allegheny May Make Final Decision.

The Dauphin county court yesterday issued a writ of quo warranto against William Kaufman, the promoters of the H. G. and M. B. Gallinger, Donald McNeil and H. C. Lippe of Pittsburgh and the Marshal Avenue Street Railway Company, to show cause why they would use the route claimed by the Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Manchester Street Railway Company. The writ was made returnable on June 26.

Mr. Kaufman and his associates have pending before the attorney general, on whose application the writ against them was issued by the Dauphin couty court, a suggestion for a writ of quo warranto against the Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Manchester Railway Company, which is a division of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, asking that the company show cause why it should use the route, which Kaufmann and his associates claim it has forfeited. This application will be pressed whatever disposition the Dauphin county court may make of the writ of quo warranto now issued, for the promoters of the new traction line must get an affirmative judgment from the Dauphin county court before they can oust the other company from its claim to the route.

Mr. Kaufman said yesterday that he was glad the court had issued the writ against him and his associates, as they had all along been willing to bring their claims to an issue.

Mudge! Not Fudge.

A suggestive text for a short essay relating to the opening of the preserving and canning season.

Now, Mudge is the name of a patent process for putting up fruits and vegetables—and the housewife who adopts this process will never again use any other.

Anyone suggesting to her "Here's something just as good" will not have an opportunity to say it the second time.

The Mudge Patent Process is at once the cheapest, the most efficacious, the most economical system for putting up anything canable. To understand it thoroughly your best plan would be to see it demonstrated in our West Basement.

Our Housefurnishing Department of West Basement is filled with all sorts of contrivances for putting up fruits and vegetables—some of them old and tried requisites, others new candidates for your favor.

Every housewife has more than a bowing acquaintance with the old style Mason Fruit Jar—a jar that has been on the market for years, and which has always sustained its fine reputation. Well, the Mason Fruit Jar has been improved, and it now has a glass top—a screw top—and there is no metal whatever about the jar. It is perfectly air-tight, could not be more so. Pints sell for 75c dozen; quarts, 85c.

Then we have the highly favored Lightning Fruit Jar, its name from the quick method of filling; pints, $1.10 dozen; quarts, $1.35.

Gilchrist Fruit Jars, those jars that have the wide mouth, pints, $1.00 dozen; quarts, $1.15; half gallons, $1.35.

Quart Tin Cans, 45c dozen.
Pure Gum Jar Rings, 10c dozen.
Refined Paraffine, 10c pound.
Fruit Jar Funnels, 15c each.
Jelly Bags, 50c to 85c each.
Jelly Strainers, 15c each.
Fruit Presses, 25c each to $5.00.
Preserving Kettles, 4 quarts to 17 quarts, 75c each up to $1.75.
Wooden Spoons, 10c, 12c, 15c.
Fruit Jar Holder and Wrench, 50c set.

Your Boy and His Summer Suit.

Or, had we better say your boys and their summer suits?—Anyhow, whether there is only one boy or a number of boys in your family you will be interested in boys' clothes for underprices.

We don't know that we could add to the goodness of our boys' clothes by growing wordy. After all about the only question that parents consider in the buying of boys' clothes is "Where can we get the best for least money?" Now that word best may mean several things—best style, best quality, best variety—and in our clothing department all the "bests" are represented—and over and above that our prices are smallest, quality for quality, quoted anywhere we know of.

And these low prices apply as well to woolen suits as they do to cotton and linen wash suits.

Light Weight Wool Suits:

For boys 8 up to 16 years, double-breasted Fancy Suits, cheviots and homespuns, a splendid suit for summer dress-up occasions, and for late into the Fall, $5.00 and $6.00 a suit. If these are not fine enough, then we have other styles by easy steps up to $12.00.

Redfern Corset Style

bespeaks the figure style that suits fashion's needs. No matter what kind the style—whether the coat or costume of Louis mode, or the severe tailor-made—the Redfern corset will meet its need.

It is the little things in corset construction that are the most important qualities, chief of which is the putting together, that creates the shapely, comfortable corset—the correct putting together and the little details are inseparable if pleasing results are to be obtained.

Redfern corsets in closest scrutiny reveal only careful work in every detail.

The Right Kind of Refrigerators.

There are any number of refrigerators made for show purposes—that is, people who buy them consider them from the standpoint of a piece of furniture, something pleasing to the eye. That's no way to size up a refrigerator. Hang the looks—it's refrigeration you want to consider; not the refrigerator.

The Eddy Refrigerators and the Jewett Refrigerators are built along lines of the most scientific refrigeration—they could not be improved upon, either in the matter of keeping foodstuffs pure and sweet or in the economical use of ice.

We have sold a great number of these refrigerators this year and we hear nothing but praise for both makes.

Jewett Refrigerators:

50-pound ice capacity, $8.00.
90-pound ice capacity, $12.25.
105-pound ice capacity, $13.50.
130-pound ice capacity, $15.50.

And on up to refrigerators of 300-pounds ice capacity, selling for the low price of $45.00.

Eddy Refrigerators:

We have been selling Eddy refrigerators for years and years—in stock now, every size and style, from 30-pound ice capacity up to 290, and from the selling price of $12.75 up to $52.50.

Director Moore does not appear to be entirely pleased with the explanation of the policemen on the Station street beat that they did not know there was a gambling house in the neighborhood. He has warned them to keep their eyes open in future. The warning is timely.

Burglars have been extremely busy in Chartiers township for a few nights past. The marauders are probably residents of the cities, but prefer the unprotected suburban districts for their operations. This is one among the many reasons for the greater city, whose police protection would at least mitigate these conditions.

One of the most important crops of the country is not included in official reports. That is grass, including that matured to hay. Upon this the immense dairy interests depend in great measure, and the price of hay affects that of corn, oats and mill feed. Weather conditions this spring have been favorable to this great staple, cool and moist. The crop will probably be worth more millions than the yield of winter wheat.

There is no danger of war between Norway and Sweden. Both are treating the separation much as a matter of business. King Oscar having declined to recognize the dissolution and refused to designate a prince of the royal house to rule Norway, the storthing is taking steps to serve fresh official notice on the king. Nothing could better prove the qualifications of Norway for self-government than this temperate attitude in face of the king's contemptuous anger.

The first selection for the faculty of the Carnegie technical schools is an index to the policy of the institution. Prof. Alexander Jay Wurts, who is to be head of the department of electrical practice is thoroughly educated in engineering science and has years of practical experience in the largest electrical manufacturing plant in the world. In him is combined the best theory with the best practice, and that is to be the standard of the schools. Moreover, Prof. Wurts is a Pittsburgher.

Canadian city councils are not inured to the sort of criticism which city councils in this country sometimes invite by their actions, and the Montreal city council has just been thrown into a spasm of excitement by an article in a newspaper of that city declaring that there was a regular Tammany hall organization in that body. Curiously enough the article was prompted by a controversy over a gas contract, which is a matter that seems to exert a particularly revolutionary influence upon politics. The Montreal city council at once denounced the article as a libel, and unanimously passed a resolution instructing the city attorneys to institute civil and criminal proceedings. Canadian cities have long derived large profits from municipal utilities by leasing them upon advantageous terms, but the growing demand for municipal ownership is causing opposition to arrangements which in this country would be regarded as singularly favorable.

The New Zealand experiment in compulsory arbitration, which has been widely extolled as a social panacea, is as yet too recent to allow safe judgment upon its merits. That it has indeed produced a country without strikes seems to be true, but there are other and less pleasant aspects of the situation which are forcing themselves upon attention. A report recently presented to the New Zealand house of representatives by the minister of labor asserted that the benefit of the labor laws is being neutralized by the advance in the cost of the necessaries of life, the price of which is rapidly advancing out of all proportion to the rise in the wages of the producers. Rent in particular has gone up greatly, and it is suggested that the state will have to make some provision for the housing of citizens. This is a situation which was anticipated by various critics of the paternal theories of government adopted in New Zealand, and while it may be successfully dealt with, yet it is evident that the whole scheme of state regulation of industry is still a questionable experiment.

President Roosevelt's instruction to Secretary Metcalfe of the department of commerce and labor to investigate the grounds for complaint that Chinese students, merchants and literati are harassed at ports of entry will likely result in removal of the Chinese grievance. Treaty stipulations permit these classes to enter freely. If there has been any undue interference it has been because the immigration officials suspected attempts to evade the law excluding laborers. The Chinese government will probably not be hard to satisfy in view of its recognition of friendly acts on the part of the United States in its behalf.

For Social Betterment.

The proposed enlargement of Kingsley House will afford needed facilities to an institution which is doing much to encourage the deficient to escape the influence of unwholesome surroundings and better their condition. No one who has had opportunities of observing the work of Kingsley House can fail to realize that it has been a center of influence which is uplifting. The boys and girls who are brought into contact with it have been learning respect for society because the estimate of their own worth has been shown to them. They acquire a genuine affection for the place as it usually represents the most inspiring influence that has entered their lives. The ideals implanted in them cannot fail to affect their whole scheme of living, and thus the influence is extended to their own homes and associates.

Kingsley House has been a growth from small beginnings, expanding only to meet pressing needs. Notwithstanding the cramped quarters new departments have been opened from time to time to accommodate volunteers ready to meet new demands upon their unselfish service. But the lack of sufficient room for manual training and indoor recreation has become so keenly felt that it is proposed to provide for these by additions to the building. Kingsley House offers a practical method of reaching the deserving which should commend it to the support of the benevolent.

Dalyrymple's Verdict.

James Dalyrymple, who came to this country from Glasgow to advise Mayor Dunne of Chicago as to the operation of street railways under municipal ownership, has reached the opinion that municipal ownership will not do in this country at all, and that "private ownership under proper conditions is far better for the citizens of American cities." This is a sensible conclusion which should have some influence in checking the popularity of the new nostrum. It is absurd to imagine that because American municipal corporations attend badly to matters now in their care they will do better if they have still more to attend to.

Municipal ownership abroad has come as a gradual extension of business capabilities previously shown in the good management of public affairs. It will be time enough to begin the process in this country when municipal organization is in like satisfactory shape. The problem of American reformers is to secure a satisfactory organization of municipal government. To get light upon that problem from abroad they should study, not so much what foreign cities do, but the system of organization by which they do it. Correct procedure leads to correct results in politics as well as in mechanics.

Commencement Illumination.

The interesting exercises in connection with the closing terms of the Pittsburgh schools and colleges are typical of hundreds of such exercises that are being held throughout the country during this leafy month of June. The school, college and university commencement has come to be one of the striking features of America's expanding educational interests. Despite the oft-repeated charge of superlative oratory the commencement is an illuminative educational adjunct. It gives the busy world and the skeptical outsider a chance to gather impressions as to the intense earnestness of the American youth in the work of securing an education. There is a half suspicion in minds of many good people, supported by the actual assertion of the critical few, that school and college life in these days is largely a thing of athletics or of strenuous gaiety, in which the midnight revel largely predominates. If the commencement exercises are followed carefully as to results the error in this conception will be discovered. These results may not always be deep enough or permanent enough to warrant a commendatory essay on the soundness of school training, but they will develop two important facts concerning American college life. The first is that these young men and women who read us prose addresses in Latin and Greek with such fluency, or who tell us in such correct and alluring poetry that "beyond the Alps lies Italy," have not been dullards or drones during the preceding nine months. With all the pressure of youthful lust for athletics and the alleged revelry of college, there has been a large share of earnest study, of striving for mastery and increasing labor to acquire knowledge of those things that enter into the proper culture of the mind.

Another illuminative revelation made by the commencement season is that there is a vast number of the young America bent on obtaining the aid to useful living that a school education will give. Our colleges and universities are no longer the exclusive haunts of the rich or even the moderately prosperous. The very poor young man and young woman have been caught in the sweep of educational desire, and self-denial and struggle may be read between the lines of thousands of graduating essays in this season of commencement.

No one of these things settle the question as to how far a college education equips for life's duties; they leave unanswered the oft-repeated charge that what is learned at school and college is only an infinitisimal part of life's real education, but they teach us that the American college boy or girl is not all lazy, nor altogether physical exercise mad, and that there is a tremendous army of them doing the best they can, sometimes under circumstances of great sacrifice, self-denial and toil, to lay a strong, broad foundation on which to build the future edifice of their lives.

If "commencements" had no other value, this illumination they give would be worth while to the public that see them.

The Redeeming Feature.

Grover Cleveland's letter of acceptance of the trusteeship of the stock of the Equitable Life Assurance society has done much to dispel the public skepticism, if not distrust, of the settlement of the troubles of that corporation. It must be admitted there were some grounds for withholding final judgment on the wisdom of the settlement on the basis as published. The lowest estimated price paid for a bare majority of the Equitable stock represents an investment return of one-tenth of one per cent. Such return is not "business," and its only justification is that it was the price paid for peace in the financial world. The nomenclature of business suggests that it is a species of warfare. We hear of one corporation "stealing a march" on another, of the building of a strategic railroad to block a competitor, of the invasion of a competitor's territory, of rate wars, and so on. A general will often make a sacrifice to avert a greater. On this theory is it possible to believe that a group of powerful financiers, foreseeing probable panic and disaster growing out of a continuance of the Equitable Life revelations, made the sacrifice involved in the payment of a sum for control of the society on a basis that would hardly cover the cost of collecting the dividends? Nevertheless, the public was warranted in entertaining a suspicion of the deal, and this suspicion is not weakened by the announcement that the new proprietors, who are connected with large Wall street operations, propose the formation of a trust company that will be the largest financial institution in the United States, and ultimately rival the greatest in the world.

Mr. Cleveland's letter, however, makes it plain that he accepts the trusteeship upon the express condition "that, so far as the trustees are to be vested with discretion in the selection of directors, they are to be absolutely free and undisturbed in the exercise of their judgment; and that, so far as they are to act formally in voting for the directors conceded to policy-holders, a fair and undoubted expression of policy-holding choice will be forthcoming." Mr. Cleveland also makes it plain that so far as he is concerned there will be no more "dummy directors" on the Equitable board, "and above all thing, they (directors) have no right to deal with interests entrusted to them in such a way as to subserve or become confused or complicated with their personal transactions or ventures." There is no reason to doubt that the other trustees entertain a similarly high conception of their office and of the requirements necessary to make eligible directors for whom they will vote. The confidence reposed in the high character of the trustees will do more to restore the Equitable Life to its former position in public esteem than the change in control of stock from Mr. Hyde to Mr. Ryan's syndicate.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS

By ERASMUS WILSON.

The expected sometimes happens.

It was expected, of course, that the men of three-score and single, would be heard from. Among these a good many are in the marrying humor, and the suggestion that they are too old to marry was calculated to arouse a feeling of resentment on their part.

Nor can they be blamed, since it is perfectly natural that some of them feel that they have as much right to marry as younger men.

And so they have. A man of 60, who is in good health and vigor has a better right to marry than a man of 30, who is short on health and vigor, or in morals and industry.

While it is not policy for a young woman to marry an old man, it were better for her to marry a well preserved, thrifty, well-mannered man of 60 than to marry a young man who is living a fast life, even though he may have money.

Fast living will wreck a young man sooner than hard work. The latter rarely ever does more than to knock him out physically for a time, while the other ruins his mind, morals and body, which means complete wreck and ruin.

* * *

"One of the 'old 'uns,' after agreeing in general terms to what was said about men past 60, says:

"Your article on old men and marriage was timely and certainly it was to the point, but I think you did not make clear enough the distinction between men 60 years young and 60 years old.

"I know men, and so do you, who have reached, or are closely hugging the Osler limit, who are much better qualified to become husbands to young women than are young men, particularly young men who are out for a good time. These are apt to live fast, and you know very well that this means an early physical decline. And what is worse, it means moral decline, which is certain to ruin their lives and bring misery to their wives and suffering to their families, to say nothing of injury to society.

"You certainly have stirred us 'old 'uns' up a bit, and while it hurts some, I think it will do good. I don't feel as much hurt after a day and night has passed as I did an hour after reading your article, and I may continue feeling better. Indeed, I know I shall if you will make the proper distinction between men 60 years old and 60 years young."

* * *

If this particular "old 'un" will go back and read the article in The Gazette of last Monday, he will see that the distinction he suggests was made. But in discussing broad questions, such as this, one cannot stop to particularize and give diagrams.

The marriage of the unfit is what we of this country must oppose most vigorously, and along with our opposing it we must suggest better ways by which to accomplish the establishment of better homes, the rearing of better conditioned children and the general improvement of society.

A well-preserved, well-mannered and well-conditioned man of 60 is more fit to marry a woman of 30, or even less, than is a man of 40 who is not well conditioned; that is, whose habits are not first class and who is not well established in business.

Money is not essential to successful marriage. In fact, it often leads to failure. Health, industry and common decency are the great essentials. A vulgar man, and given to coarseness of manner, is more or less brutal toward his fellows and will be the same towards his wife and children.

A poor but industrious and kindly disposed man will make a far better husband than an arrogant, vulgar man, even though he has money by the barrel.

Money may buy entertainment, but it cannot buy happiness.

* * *

"Allow me to thank you for what you said about us old fellows in Monday's paper," writes "A Sixty-fiver" from the Beaver valley.

"You hit us pretty hard, particularly those of us who are thinking about getting married again. I think a man who has been married is better qualified to marry at 65 than is a bachelor at 50. A bachelor at that age is set in his ways, and it is hard to learn a dog new tricks, especially an old dog, and one set in his ways.

"The widower has been trained in domestic life so that he doesn't need to learn new tricks, while the bachelor's ways are anything but domestic. And then he is usually more or less grouchy and stiff-necked, and not inclined to take to domestic life. This would spoil his chances for a happy home.

"But widowers, as I said before, are different, and I think are fit to marry at any time of life. And I think it is better for them to marry, for that is the life they have been used to. You know the old rule said 'Let a man stick to his trade.' So let the bachelor stick to his, and the widower keep to the trade he has learned.

"I don't think much of old men marrying girls or women a great deal younger than themselves. Ten or fifteen years difference is enough. As you say, a young wife is apt to tire of an old husband, particularly when there are so many young men around."

* * *

And there are others, some of whom protest that although they were born 60 years ago, they are as young as they used to be.

This is an error, and a grave one at that, so grave and serious that it has wrecked many homes.

The tendency of men who think they are as young as they used to be is to seek company as young as that which they used to enjoy, and to marry girls as young as those whom they courted in their young days.

Some one has said "A man is as old as he feels and a woman as old as she looks," but these old fellows who think they are young usually misquote the adage, making it read, "A man is as old as he thinks he is." That makes a lot of difference, for no man feels as young at 60 as he did at 30, or even at 40, and yet he may manage to think he is.

Many men feel as young in heart as ever they did, but not in body. And while the heart feeling plays an important part in married life, it does not play all the parts. Without physical strength and vigor a man cannot earn the means to support a wife, no matter how great the love between them.

After all, common sense is the thing to depend upon. It will guide you all right, or as nearly right as one can reasonably hope to be guided.

Study yourself, therefore, weigh carefully your powers, consider your success in life, and carefully estimate your chances for the future, and then be guided in your actions by common sense, and you will not go far wrong.

New Words Wanted.

From the St. James Gazette.

We want popular verbs for several operations introduced by modern science. The X-ray, the Finsen treatment for lupus, the operations of radium for cancer, and what-not—what are the words for these? A man is guillotined or is hanged; his leg is amputated; he is trepanned. What is it when he is rayed, Finsened, radiumed? We still want a wireless word. What is the synonym for telephone when one speaks over the instrument to which a phonograph is attached? And have we finally agreed that to motor is the verb to travel by automobile?

Stopped on the Tenth Word.

A Kansas man away from home received a dispatch from his wife saying, "Come to see me at once. I am dying." He took the train immediately and reached home eight hours later. His wife received him joyfully. When he was able to speak he asked her what she meant by sending such a message. "I wanted to say that I was dying to see you," the woman explained, "but the man would only let me send ten words for a quarter."—New York Tribune.

TALKED OF IN GOTHAM

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 14.—"Marriage is nature's career for woman. Love and mental cleverness should not detract from the other in any respect." This is the outward position of Miss Laura D. Gill, dean of Barnard college, on the question of matrimony. Miss Gill's manner may seem brusque and chillingly academic but to the graduating class this year, to whom the subject of matrimony is an all-absorbing topic, it is no secret that Miss Gill has a heart made for confidences—in fact, it was a motherly talk to one of the five members of the graduating class, whose several engagements were announced on class day, that she disclosed her innermost views on the subject of marriage.

This particularly bright young woman had moments of indecision between the pulling strings of love and the attractive glories of a "career." To her Miss Gill gave this dictum: "Unless a girl has a decided bent in another direction she should devote her energies to the making of a home. There is absolutely nothing about college work that would destroy a taste for domesticity. A girl can be just as womanly, just as lovable and attractive and still be mentally clever. One should not detract from the other in any respect."

The five members of the class of '05 who have undertaken to solve for themselves the problem, "does higher education unfit a woman for marriage?" are centers for all the bright eyes of the classmates. Perhaps it is because "all the world loves a lover," that every girl of the class is of the opinion in these pleasant June days that higher education does not detract one iota from a girl's taste for domesticity. When it comes down to concrete duties, they may not all be of one mind, but of the five betrothed girls, each is positive that the "ologies" and "isms" will not interfere in the slightest with her being a good wife and housekeeper.

Just as Handy as Alimony.

In Judge Bischoff's part of the supreme court today a jury returned a verdict of $2,000 in favor of Miss Adelaide Clifford and against the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company. Miss Clifford is an actress. The injuries for which she has just obtained damages were sustained while she was walking the ties of the defendant's railroad. From this statement it must not be inferred that the actress was stranded and, lacking a ticket to take her to her destination, was walking home. The train did not go clear up to the station at Alamasa, Col., and the passengers were ordered to walk the rest of the way. Miss Clifford, after protesting, got out and started to walk the ties to the station and in the dark she stumbled and fell and sustained internal injuries that incapacitated her for work for several weeks.

Colds Are Barred from Choir Loft.

That nose-blowing is a necessary evil is admitted by Archdeacon William R. Jenvey of St. Paul's Episcopal church, Eighth and Hudson streets, Hoboken, but that members of the choir should practice the habit during the rendition of an anthem, he refuses to admit; in fact, he has issued an edict that he will not allow it to be done in the future. The ban against such indulgence in the choir loft was issued as the result of a recent visit of Dr. Jenvey to the choir room. "I have noticed here tonight, as I have often noticed in church, that the members of the choir use their handkerchiefs at most inopportune times," said Dr. Jenvey to the choirmaster. "I wish the ladies and gentlemen of the choir would remember that the art of using the handkerchief, or not using, is just as important during an anthem as the proper method of breathing or enunciating. I wish, Mr. Marshall, that you would see to it in the future that the choir singing is not disturbed by the discordant sounds I have alluded to."

Uncle Sam Forbids Flirting.

Because he smiled at a pretty girl, Edward Langdon, a clerk in the office of Robert A. Sharkey, naval officer of the port of New York, will lose ten days' pay. Although the young woman made no complaint against Langdon the fact that she seemed displeased induced a witness of the affair to make representations to Secretary Shaw. Langdon, a month ago, met the girl on an elevated train, smiled at her and, thinking himself encouraged, dropped his card in her lap. The girl tore the card into small bits and threw the pieces on the floor. The incident was noticed by a passenger, who gathered the pieces together and learned Langdon's identity. The card, its pieces pasted together, was sent to Mr. Shaw, with an account of the incident.

Mme. Nordica's Plea for Clemency.

Mme. Lillian Nordica was before Magistrate Finn in Jefferson Market court today—not as a prisoner. Oh, no!—as a supplicant for mercy for Louis Dourassel, her chauffeur, whom Policeman Rensselaer arrested, charged with having exceeded the automobile speed limit when Mme. Nordica was in the car. And Mme. Nordica got mercy for him, the magistrate with dramatic chivalry fixing bail in the insignificant amount of $50 when he held the chauffeur for trial in special sessions.

"Does it never happen that the automobilist is in the right?" she asked as she was about to sign the bond.

"Sometimes, madame," replied Magistrate Finn.

"Well, I am sure this is one of those times," she rejoined. "The policeman's zeal was excessive. I think the speed laws are good things and I obey them."

Beginning July 1 Charles Frohman will add another to the extensive departments he conducts in the Empire theater building. He will then open a play bureau, in which all the successful works produced by him at the Empire and his other theaters, and in which his companies and stars have appeared, may be leased on royalties for use by stock companies or individuals. The list of plays Mr. Frohman owns and controls is very long and includes many of the well-known and popular pieces that playgoers have enjoyed the last dozen years.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

The Minister's Revenge.

The Rev. Thomas Mason had been settled in the town of Northfield, Mass., for life. As he approached 70 years of age his people came to think that they wanted a younger minister.

"You want me to give up my flock," he said. "I am old and cannot easily find a new field of labor. If my young brother wants to take my place, and you are satisfied, I will turn you over to him for $1,000."

The old clergyman's proposition was not considered unfair, and the money was paid to him.

Not long after a goodly number of the citizens were at the postoffice, among them the old parson. As they stood there a drover came up with a lot of hogs, which he was driving to market, and the people gathered around them.

"Friend Drover," said Mr. Mason, "what do you expect to get for that lot of hogs?"

The drover replied that he ought to get $600.

"I have done vastly better than that," said the old minister, casting a smiling glance around upon his former parishioners, a score of whom were there. "Not long since I sold a lot of just such critters—not half so decent looking as yours are—and I got $1,000 for 'em."—Boston Herald.

Did Not Stop.

Chaplain E. A. Horton of the Massachusetts legislature told a story about a long-winded member of that body. The legislator was delivering a political address in a town not far from Boston, and the village folk gathered in the town hall to hear it.

"He had been speaking quite a while," said Dr. Horton, "when finally an old Scotchman arose and walked out of the hall. At the door one of his countrymen was waiting with his hack to drive the orator to the station.

"'Is he done yet, Sandy?' asked the Scot on the box.

"The old man turned about.

"'Aye,' said he, 'he's done lang ago, but he will na stop.'"—New York Tribune.

Kipling Declined the Agency.

While a resident in Battleboro, Vt., Rudyard Kipling made visits in Gloucester with the late Dr. Conland for material for his Gloucester story, "Captains Courageous."

Passing by the Fisherman's Bethel one day, they were attracted by the sign, "Agents Wanted to Sell to a Fisherman." They entered and inquired what the Fisherman was. Ex-Chaplain Emmanuel Charlton of the bethel, seeing Mr. Kipling's interest in the little magazine, and entirely ignorant of the identity of his guest, slapped Mr. Kipling cordially on the back and said: "You are evidently a stranger in town. Here's a chance for you to make money. I'll give you 2 cents commission on every copy you sell. You admit it's a good thing."

The author of "Barrack Room Ballads" winked slyly at his medical friend, thanked Mr. Charlton for his interest in a stranger and assured him he would call again. This he did after dinner, when he introduced himself to the amazement of the chaplain and the great amusement of Mr. Kipling, who declined the agency.—Boston Herald.

A Cashier's Excuse.

Lloyd Osborne, kinsman and collaborator of Robert Louis Stevenson, called on the cashier of a leading magazine the other day, after vainly writing several time for a check due him.

"I am sorry," explained the cashier, "but Col. So-and-So, who always signs our checks, is confined at home with the gout."

"But, my dear man," expostulated the author-collector, "does he sign them with his feet?"—New York Times.

The Boy Shut the Hat.

Archbishop Ryan, at a dinner that was given in his honor in Philadelphia, said, anent a man who had bought a salted mine:

"The gentleman's disappointment on discovery of the salt must have been great. It resembled a little, perhaps, the emotion of a certain Frankford man.

"This man had a small nephew of whom he was very fond. One night, in evening dress, he called at the youngster's house, and, taking him on his knee, gave a demonstration of an opera hat's mechanism. First he would crush his tall black hat into a pancake. Then, with a loud report, he would spring it back into its proper shape again.

"The little fellow was amazed. He took the hat. He, too, found he could crush it and open it again with ease. He played with it for half an hour. He had a good time. The episode made an impression on him.

"The uncle called the next month on a Sunday afternoon. This time he wore a frock coat and a silk hat. He placed the silk hat on a table in the hall, entered the parlor, and began to converse with his brother.

"An hour passed. Then the little nephew entered with something black and shapeless in his hand.

"'Uncle,' he said, 'this hat is harder than your other one. I've had to sit on it, but I can't get it more'n half shut.'"—Buffalo Enquirer.

K. Bangs, December, 1895."—Kansas City Journal.

MARGINALIA.

Random Notes of Writers, Their Work and Their Ways.

In these days, when nearly everybody is an author or wants to be one, advice to the literary aspirant is always sure to be read with a relish. That advice has rarely so much sound sense in it as the remarks of Leslie M. Quirk in Spare Moments. Mr. Quirk, who has had experience both as an editor and a contributor to the magazines, says that "Every successful magazine in this country is filling or attempting to fill some special sphere. The man or woman who writes must know his markets; must be able to determine at a glance just what quality—character drawing complications, action, plot, description, atmosphere, and the like—strike the central note in the stories printed by each magazine. Until the writer learns how one publication differs from its fellows, he can hardly hope to submit with any degree of success; he can do nothing more than strike out blindly trusting to stumble upon the proper market in the search.

"There is no better practice in the world, says he, than to sit down and analyze the stories of some magazine. Pick them to pieces. Find the strident note in each. If the young writer would sit down and study the various stories in this way, it would prove a most liberal education to him.

"Now that the type of stories characteristic of each publisher is learned, it is necessary to come down to one's own work. Granted that your story has the motif and the artistic working out, is it done well enough for Century or Harper's, or is it merely a 'pot-boiler'? You must learn to look upon your work as impartially as if you were a critic viewing the composition of some other person.

"Selling is not easy," he concludes, but it is a part of the glorious fight for recognition. One who cannot feel his blood quicken and his jaw set at the rebuffs, has no business in the profession. Meet your returning manuscripts with a smile—once, twice, a dozen times." Says Albert Bigelow Paine: "The story or the article or the poem may come back again and again. The author may rewrite it over and over; but if he perseveres, and the offering is genuine it will find its place and welcome at last. I have had stories and poems returned to me as many as fifteen times, only to place them at last in a better market than I had hoped for in the beginning. The author who gives up after one rejection or two or ten is unworthy of the name."

"It is easy for the public to think that Conan Doyle has been writing of real people in his Sherlock Holmes stories. The publication of 'The Return of Sherlock Holmes' brought the publishers a letter extremely interesting as showing how the characters of fiction live in the mind of many readers. The writer dates his letter from a little Pennsylvania town, and says: 'One story gave a description of Horace Harker, in whose house a man had been murdered, in London. I am much interested in the Harker family, and would be awful glad if I could get in correspondence with some of the Harker family in England. My father's mother was a Harker, who came to this country with her parents when she was quite young. Do you think if I would write to Dr. Watson in London, who seems to have been Mr. Holmes' constant companion, that he would answer my letter, and try to place me in communication with some one? Can you give me Dr. Watson's address in London? Yours very truly."

An amusing story is told in a book on "Modern Advertising," by Ernest Elmo Calkins and Ralph Holden. When James Gordon Bennett the elder was editor of the New York Herald, Robert Bonner, publisher of the New York Ledger, was struggling to build up a circulation, and decided to try a little advertising. He wrote an announcement consisting of eight words: "Read Mrs. Southworth's new story in the Ledger," and sent it to the Herald marked for "one line." Mr. Bonner's handwriting was so bad that the words were read in the Herald office as "one page." Accordingly the line was set up and repeated so as to occupy an entire page. Mr. Bonner was thunderstruck the next morning. He had not to his name money enough in the bank to pay the bill. He rushed excitedly over to the Herald office, but was too late to do any good.

In a short time the results of the page announcement began to be felt. Orders for the Ledger poured in until the entire edition was exhausted and another one was printed. Thus the success of the Ledger was established. The only doubtful point about the tale is its moral. Is it intended to show that it pays to advertise, or that a bad handwriting may sometimes be a good thing?

About a mile from the western edge of New Haven, on a hillside which commands an extensive view of the city and Long Island sound, visitors are regularly shown Edgewood, the home of Donald C. Mitchell, the Ik Marvel of those much loved books of half a century ago, "Reveries of a Bachelor," and "Dream Life." Though of a previous generation, and the friend, in his day, of literary men like Washington Irving, Mr. Mitchell is still on nearly every spring day to be seen at his home, hale and hearty, even under the burden of his eighty-three years.

Ik Marvel affirms according to a writer in the New York Tribune that his vigorous health has been mostly acquired by his outdoor life and attention to farming. Shortly after he was graduated from Yale he became the victim of a pulmonary trouble which had within the preceding three years attacked three members of his family with fatal results. It was this illness which forced Mr. Mitchell at that time to abandon the idea of a journalistic or literary life in New York where the young literary men of his day gathered, and took him ultimately to Edgewood in search of health.

His books date as far back that few people think the author can be still alive. "Fresh Gleanings" was published in 1847, "The Bottle Summer" in 1849; "Reveries of a Bachelor" in 1850, and "Dream Life" in 1852, besides a dozen of other books. Soon after the publication of "Dream Life" Mr. Mitchell married and went to Venice, appointed by President Pierce as consul at that place. In 1855 he returned to this country and retired to his farm near New Haven where he has since lived.

WILSON JURYMEN SEAL A VERDICT

Police Captain Again on Trial, Charged With Extorting $50 from Frances Foley.

DEFENSE OBJECTS TO JUROR

Another trial involving charges of extortion against Police Captain James Wilson of Allegheny, has been concluded, and the result will be known this morning when the court opens a sealed verdict in the case, in which the defendant is accused of accepting $50 from Frances Foley to permit her to open and maintain a disorderly house at 60 West Robinson street. The evidence was given to the jury at 3:22 p. m., and when it returned about an hour later, court had adjourned.

District Attorney Stewart and his assistants, Haymaker and Marron, had to fight an effort on the part of Attorney Ferguson to have the case postponed. Mr. Ferguson alleging the recent publications and editorial comment of certain newspapers had prejudiced the present jury panel and his client could not hope for a fair trial under the circumstances. Mr. Ferguson argued:

"If some intimation could be given to the newspapers by the court that their efforts to create sentiment against this defendant are ill-advised, it would operate to the facilitating of this trial. The intimidation and interference by the newspapers in this series of trials have been one thousand times greater than anything alleged against this defendant."

Favors the Defendant.

Judge McClung remarked: "Discussions in the newspapers operate in favor of the defendant for the reason that if they be shown to have prejudiced the case the verdict can be set aside, while the commonwealth naturally has no such recourses. If you can prove the newspapers have in any way prejudiced your case, your client is not in the slightest danger. We would then set aside the verdict instantly, and your client has that advantage over the commonwealth. I am unable to see that there is the slightest reason for postponing this trial. I do not think anything has occurred here to interfere with the actions of any honest juryman. If there was anything, it was some over-zealous, ignorant friend trying to do what he could not do to influence honest men on the jury."

District Attorney Stewart stated that great care had been taken to prepare the cases, and he said he could not see that anything had been done to interfere with trying them at this time.

The court asked Attorney Ferguson how he was going to avoid this trouble in the future by postponing the case.

"We cannot put your case over now to right any supposed wrong that has been done."

But the Trial Went On.

Attorney Ferguson then told the court certain jurymen on the panel had been told by officers, purporting to be of the commonwealth, how to act and what to do. He said this was manifestly improper, and prejudicial to the interests of his client. The court, however, refused to postpone the cases and the trial proceeded.

Juror James Haywood, who was alleged to have been approached by S. C. Wilkinson, the man held for the grand jury, was called and objected to by Mr. Ferguson.

"State your cause," said Mr. Marron.

"We expect to show that this man, while a juror at the last trial, was approached by an officer of the court; or, at least we understand that it appears that way from the testimony taken yesterday."

Judge McClung said there was nothing in the testimony to indicate that, and the district attorney assured the court there was nothing of the kind. He offered, however, at the suggestion of the court, to relieve Haywood, but wanted it distinctly understood he did it only out of courtesy and to save any embarrassment that might occur because Haywood was on the jury that convicted Wilson.

Both Sides Acted Fairly.

The commonwealth did not ask any unfair advantage, although no cause could be shown. At the same time the defense showed its fairness by agreeing that no juryman on the Boland and Trautvetter cases should be seated.

The jury as finally selected consited of John T. Gay, laborer, Braddock; Daniel Berg, Sr., machinist, Seventeenth ward; John Hineman, assessor, Twenty-sixth ward; Martin Dean, laborer, Twenty-eighth ward; E. B. Riddle, carpenter, Second ward, Allegheny; Robert Wallace, farmer, Franklin township; Joseph Helmick, laborer, Second ward, McKeesport; J. C. Breitbach, agent, Second ward, Allegheny; John C. Dicks, clerk, Bellevue; Harry Rutter, brakeman, Verona; George Keitzer, blacksmith, Homestead; Stephen Meyers, miner, Baldwin township.

Judge McClung cautioned the jury after it was drawn and directed that any attempt toward influencing a juror should be reported to him at once.

The first witness was Francis Foley of 59 West Robinson street, who previously lived at 60 West Robinson street. She had known Capt. Wilson for two years. She tried to get permission to open a resort at No. 60, but failed. Mrs. Dora Freshman offered to get the desired permission for $50. The witness gave her the money and was told it was turned over to Capt. Wilson. That evening Miss Foley met Captain Wilson on the street, and he told her it was all right to open the house.

Told Her to Go Back.

Under cross-examination Miss Foley admitted that she went from Pittsburgh to Allegheny and that when she first applied for permission to open No. 60 Capt. Wilson told her to go back to Pittsburgh, where she belonged.

Mrs. Dora Freshman of 202 West Robinson street, and Miss Foley gave her $50 and she gave it to GCapt. Wilson for Miss Foley. Capt. Wilson took the money in his hand and put it in his pocket, saying it would be a little spending money. At one interview when Miss Foley was present and very gloomy, Capt. Wilson said to her:

"Don't worry, little girl."

Mr. Ferguson read Mrs. Freshman's testimony at the last trial, when she said she put the money in Capt. Wilson's pocket. She explained that Miss Foley's money was paid prior to this.

A number of women were placed on the stand who testified to seeing Wilson going to or coming from Mrs. Freshman's house and others who saw him in the house. One of them heard him talk about a girl for whom he was looking and whose picture he had. This evidence was to show that the defendant frequented the house.

Mr. Ferguson opened the defense by offering the indictment against Dora Freshman for selling liquor without a license.

Capt. Wilson's Testimony.

Capt. Wilson was then placed on the stand. He denied that he ever received $50 to allow Miss Foley to open a house or ever met her and Mrs. Freshman in reference to such a matter. He explained his visits to Mrs. Freshman's house by saying that he had frequently been asked to find young girls and had gone to her for information.

Mr. Haymaker was quick to catch this point and in cross-examination asked for the names of such girls. Mr. Ferguson said that would stir up a scandal. Mr. Haymaker did not think so, and the court told Capt. Wilson to answer the question. He could not recall any names, but said he could if he had his books.

W. C. Burry, a wholesale baker, Fred Goettman, register of deeds for Allegheny county, and others, testified to Wilson's character and the case closed.

At Mr. Ferguson's request Judge McClung said there must be a demand to make extortion, but he held that such a demand might be made without specific words.

Mr. Ferguson in his address to the jury dwelt at some length on extortion. Touching the specific charge, he said he did not know that Miss Foley gave Mrs. Freshman the $50, but if she did Mrs. Freshman kept it and Capt. Wilson never got the money. He attacked Mrs. Freshman's character, and said she was under indictment before Wilson was and has not been tried, but the whip of the commonwealth is being used to force her to testify against him.

John Marron, for the prosecution, said Wilson was a self-confessed associate of disreputable women. He drew a picture of Wilson's career in the red-light district, as he saw it, that was far from flattering.

Judge McClung's charge was brief and covered the points as in the previous case.

HE'S NOT THE MAN; IT WAS A GAMBLER

Supt. Wallace Says He Will Prove That Amos Dachroth Was Mistaken.

PARTIAL HEARING IS HELD

Mistaken identity and an alibi will constitute the defense of Police Superintendent Wallace to the charge made by Amos A. Dachroth, the former Allegheny policeman. Mayor Hays and Director Moore began a hearing in the case yesterday afternoon. After three witnesses had testified the hearing was continued until 4 o'clock this afternoon. Attorneys John C. Haymaker and John Marron represented Dachroth, and Attorney W. J. Brennen appeared for Wallace. The hearings are being held behind closed doors.

Dachroth accuses Wallace, while in the company of Gladys Wilson of No. 81 West Robinson street at 2 o'clock last Friday morning, of calling him vile names. Dachroth was the first witness. He said Wallace drove up in a cab with the Wilson woman. Wallace was intoxicated and the woman was carrying a quart bottle of whisky. Dachroth had subpoenas to serve on witnesses in the Allegheny graft cases. When Wallace saw the witness standing near the Wilson woman's house Dachroth testified he exclaimed:

Dachroth's Account of Incident.

"Hey, there; you fellow with the straw hat!"

Dachroth paid no attention. Wallace walked up to him and said:

"Oh, you cheap ——. You are a cur."

Dachroth positively identified Wallace as the man who insulted him.

Howard Compton testified he was with Dachroth and told the same story. He also identified Wallace. On cross-examination Compton said he had seen Wallace in the court house half a dozen times during the last year.

After the hearing Wallace said he had not been in the court house this year.

Lieutenant Robert Dickson of the Allegheny police, was called by the defense and said Wallace was not the man who insulted Dachroth. He has known Wallace for 15 years and it was not the superintendent who was present.

Attorneys Haymaker and Marron have more witnesses to produce and the defense has five.

What Wallace May Prove.

Superintendent Wallace asserts he is innocent. He expects to prove that a Pittsburgh councilman and an Allegheny gambler were with the Wilson woman. The gambler is said to bear a startling resemblance to Wallace, and Dachroth, it is alleged, mistook him for the superintendent.

Patrolmen Charles Johnston and Peter McCollough, on whose beat is the Station street gambling house, which was raided last Saturday night by the county detectives, were before the police trial board yesterday to explain why they had not reported the resort to the inspector. The men said they had no knowledge of the place. Director Moore told them to return to their work and keep their eyes open for such places in the future.

Policemen James McCann of the Forty-third street station house and Matthew Cassidy of the Central station were dismissed from the service for violating the police rules.

FAVOR NEW AGREEMENT WITH RAILROAD COMPANY

Allegheny Select Council Approves of Plans for the Elevation and Depression of Tracks.

Allegheny select council yesterday passed an ordinance which authorizes the mayor and director of public works to enter into a contract with the Pennsylvania Company relative to the elevation and depression of the company's tracks between McClure avenue and the Allegheny river bridge, insofar as it relates to the Washington and Sedgwick street crossing. The ordinance was opposed by John C. Oliver, who contended that the old agreement between the railroad company and the city should be adhered to, as the new plan, even if it did cost less, would result in an eyesore. City Solicitor Porter stated the new plan will save the city at least $300,000 and do away with the raising of about 1,000 houses. The ordinance passed finally by a vote of 10 to 1. All other measures occasioned by the change of plan in the Washington and Sedgwick crossing, except those required by a three-fourths vote (only 11 members being present), were passed finally without debate.

The ordinance authorizing the payment of $1,400 to the H. J. Heinz Company for furnishing labor and material for the addition to the Municipal hospital was returned to the committee on finance. It was recommended negatively at the last meeting of the committee. The ordinance fixing the water rents and the cost by meter, which had been recommended affirmatively, was also returned to the finance committee, Lee C. Beatty, who made the motion, insisting and giving figures which tended to prove that the rates are unreasonable. These ordinances passed finally:

Grading, paving and curbing Herman, Anna and Villa streets; construction of a highway bridge in Riverview park and driving piles and building cribs on the eastern portion of Wabash avenue. Morris Einstein of the Twelfth ward introduced a joint resolution that property owners and others be compelled to remove all obstructions from East street, which has been widened from Madison avenue to Royal street, and it was passed finally under a suspension of the rules. A resolution to adjourn councils during July and August was defeated. An ordinance introduced fixes the salary of the assistant superintendent of the bureau of public improvement at $1,500 a year.

MANY GO PICNICKING.

Several Local Organizations Hold Their Annual Outing.

West End merchants and their friends to the number of 3,000 abandoned business for a day yesterday and attended the annual picnic of the Merchants' Protective association at Rock Point. A special train conveyed the picnickers to and from the park.

Pupils of the Elliott public school held their annual picnic in Aliquippa park yesterday. A special train carried 600 parents and children to the grounds. Homestead business men and their friends to the number of 2,000 left for Conneaut lake in three special trains yesterday morning. The party returned last night. The Hill top fire department held its annual picnic in Southern park and a half holiday was declared on the hill top. The House and Shelter held its annual outing in Calhoun park and attracted a large gathering.

Moore Tires of Fender Talk.

Asserting that he believed safety fenders on trolley cars were of no earthly use, but protesting that nevertheless the Pittsburgh Railways Company must equip its cars with them, Director Harry Moore of the public safety department said that another test would be made as soon as John Murphy, superintendent of the traction company, indicates that he was ready. Director Moore said he heard nothing but fenders from morning until night, and that agents of fender manufacturers pursued him even in his home.

CHOOSE FIRST FACULTY MEMBER

HIS WORK IS WIDELY KNOWN

A Pittsburgher, prominent here for many years in the Westinghouse industries, is the first appointee to a professorship at the Carnegie Technical schools. Alexander J. Wurts was yesterday named as professor of applied electricity and head of the department of electrical practice at the new institution. His appointment will take effect September 1. He will assist in the preparation of a curriculum and the equipping of the electrical laboratory for both night and day students in the school of applied science.

Prof. Wurts is a native of Carbondale, Pa., where he was born March 3, 1862. He attended the public schools of New Haven, Conn., and was graduated from Yale in 1883 with the degree of bachelor of philosophy. A graduate course at Stevens' institute gave him the degree of mechanical engineer the next year.

A. J. Wurts.

He took a special course in electrical engineering at the Polytechnicum at Hanover, Germany, under Prof. Kohlrausch. He returned to the United States and entered upon his work. For a year he was connected with New Jersey concerns, and in 1887 he was engaged by the Westinghouse Electrical & Manufacturing Company for scientific research, laboratory and development work. He held this position for about 10 years. During this period, in addition to his regular duties, he invented the well-known lightning arrester, bearing his name, and devised many appliances of a protective nature. He is also the discoverer of the non-arching metals, for which he received the John Scott medal from the city of Philadelphia under recommendation from the Franklin institute.

In 1898 he undertook for Mr. Westinghouse the development of the Nernst lamp, in which, with his associates, he was particularly successful, and after three years, had carried the development work to such a state of advancement that a large factory was organized in Pittsburgh, of which Mr. Wurts was made manager. In 1904 he tendered his resignation to the Nernst Lamp Company to return to the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and carry on some special development work. At about the same time Mr. Wurts became associated with the Carnegie Technical school's as one of the office staff of the director, and arrangements were made whereby a portion of his time was devoted to the preliminary work of the Carnegie Technical schools and a portion to the Westinghouse company.

Mr. Wurts has made many important inventions, has written for the press and given lectures before engineering societies and universities. He is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Philosophical society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Pittsburgh Academy of Science and Art, etc.

He was married at Pittsburgh, June 30, 1890, to Jeanie Lowrie Childs, daughter of Col. James H. and Mary Howe Childs of Pittsburgh.

In regard to Mr. Wurts the following statement was made yesterday by Director Arthur A. Hamerschlag:

"Mr. Wurts comes excellently equipped in electrical knowledge to assume the headship of the department of electrical practice in the school of applied science, and with his breadth of commercial, scientific and inventive experience, promises to establish a curriculum which will undoubtedly do much for the students wishing to specialize in this subject. His record will show that he is well prepared by education and experience to make this department of the school of applied science especially strong in its inception, and its true scientific foundation thoroughly practical in its relation to the industries of the community."

NEW RAILROAD TO BE BUILT.

Construction of Brookville & Mahoning Line on West Side of Allegheny Commences Monday.

KITTANNING, June 14.—(Special.)—Next Monday the work of constructing the Brookville & Mahoning railroad on the west side of the Allegheny river from opposite Manoning, on the Buffalo & Allegheny Valley, to Freeport, a distance of 25 miles, will be commenced.

Starting at Hyde in Elk county, where it connects with the Pittsburgh, Shawmut & Northern railroad, the Brookville & Mahoning road will run in almost a direct line to Brookville, a distance of 30 miles. Here the low grade division of the Pennsylvania railroad is crossed at an elevation, and the line runs to Mahoning creek. The creek is then followed to the Allegheny river, 10 miles north of this place, and is crossed by an elevated bridge. The west side of the river will be followed to Freeport, where connection will be made with the West Penn division of the Pennsylvania railroad, the Allegheny & Pittsburgh division being reached over this division.

THREW HERSELF ON DEAD BODY OF FAVORITE HORSE

Testimony to Be Given in Will Case to Show Unique Character of Deceased.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

TIFFIN, O., June 14.—The Hoyt will case was resumed today before Judge Fries. In the opening statement for the plaintiffs, Judge E. G. Johnston said they expected to prove that Judge Bunn, beneficiary of the will which disposed of a $200,000 estate, had represented himself to Mrs. Hoyt as part owner of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and that he was going to elect himself United States senator.

Judge Johnston said the plaintiffs would prove the insanity of Mrs. Hoyt by showing her conduct in connection with her horses and dogs. It is claimed when her favorite horse died from the effects of an accident, she had the animal wrapped in several thicknesses of white linen and threw herself upon the body in seemingly uncontrollable grief.

Likewise, she is said to have spent $200 to have a skilled veterinary come to Tiffin from New York city, when her favorite dog had mange. The relatives will claim the deceased was insane from the abuse of alcoholic stimulants.

PUDDLERS MAY SECEDE FROM THE AMALGAMATED

Secession Likely to Result in Another War Between Them and the Finishers at Youngstown.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 14.—A secession of the puddlers from the Amalgamated association is altogether probable, and there will be a repetition of the war between the finishers and puddlers which existed in 1898 and 1894. This time the conditions will be reversed and the puddlers will desert the Amalgamated association.

The movement has its start in the plans of the strikers of the American Steel Hoop Company to return to work whether the Amalgamated association approves or not. It is freely asserted when the split comes, that the puddlers of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, the American Car and Foundry Company and other independent plants, will go with the puddlers of the steel hoop company.

The puddlers assert the price for boiling should not be based on bar iron and that the entire system of the scale is wrong. They claim that the manufacturers would deal direct with the new organization, should one be formed, and that they would return to work at the steel hoop plants good union men.

ALUMNI FAVORS GREENVILLE.

Majority of Graduates Vote to Again Open Thiel College in Old Location.

GREENVILLE, June 14.—(Special.)—Although no session of Thiel college has been held for two years, during which period the trustees have engaged in almost continuous litigation with the citizens of Greenville, in an effort to remove the college to Greensburg, a meeting of the alumni association was held here today with President W. E. Pettit presiding. In reply to a circular letter sent out recently by the president asking whether the members of the alumni were in favor of opening the college at Greenville this fall, over 150 replied, a majority favoring opening the school. Four Greensburg men voted in the affirmative.

The Rev. G. F. Gehr, general secretary of the Lutheran theological seminary at Chicago, stated that the number of candidates for the ministry had fallen off considerably since the closing of Theil, and he was in favor of opening the college some place. The following officers were elected: President, W. E. Pettit; secretary, T. C. Whiteman; corresponding secretary, H. L. Heck; treasurer, C. E. Wittmer.

FOE OF THE WORKING MAN.

New Castle Labor Leader So Says of Mr. Carnegie—Declares Gift Will Be Opposed.

NEW CASTLE, June 14.—(Special.)—Andrew Carnegie is the foe of the workingman, according to the statement today of Thomas Humphreys, business agent and secretary of the New Castle Trades and Labor assembly. Humphreys makes this statement in reply to that of President Theodore Shaffer of Pittsburgh, that Carnegie never opposed the Amalgamated.

The local labor leader says the union men of this city will oppose accepting $40,000 from Carnegie, because his wealth was made by oppressing the wage earners and the records show that Carnegie is opposed to union organizations wherever he came in contact with them, at any mill he controlled.

Suit Against the Hon. A. J. Palm.

GREENVILLE, June 14.—(Special.)—Former Assemblyman A. J. Palm of Meadville is charged with obtaining money under false pretense. The prosecutors, Dr. H. M. Fetser and F. J. McFarland of Greenville, allege they entered into a partnership with Palm for the manufacture of cement blocks and that each put in $2,000. Palm, they say, failed to put up a cent but deposited their money in the Crawford County Trust Company. The hearing was adjourned until later in the week. The defendant is known all over the state as a Democratic politician and newspaper man.

Charles M. Watson, Connellsville; vice president, the Rev. C. O. Bemies, McClellandtown; corresponding secretary, J. A. Glenn, Uniontown; superintendent of good citizenship, the Rev. E. B. H. Martin and J. A. Glenn, Uniontown. The selection of the time and place for the next annual convention was left in the hands of the board of directors.

MONONGAHELA, June 14.—The fortieth annual convention of the Washington district of the Epworth league began its session this afternoon. The convention is being held in the Methodist Episcopal church. By tomorrow morning all delegates will have arrived. An interesting program has been prepared and much interest is being shown. The church has also been beautifully decorated for the occasion. At 3:30 o'clock the reception was held and following that the registration. The meeting of the cabinet and other societies took place at 4 o'clock. The evening program started at 7:30 o'clock with praise service led by W. F. Alton of this city. At 8 o'clock addresses were delivered by the Rev. J. T. Poender of Pittsburgh, whose subject was "The League and Temperance." The Rev. R. S. Ross, D. D., of Monongahela, delivered an address.

EVERY NOONTIME YOU SEE IT:

An innumerable number of eyes turned upward, from every point of vantage in the greater city. All gazing at the top northwest corner of the Farmers Bank Building, watching for the time ball to drop at high noon.

The time ball has certainly caught the public eye and "Where's the best place to see the time ball drop?" is a query often heard. Weather man Ridgway claims that the best place from which to see the daily time performance is his office on the top of the Farmers building. And no doubt Mr. Ridgway is right; he certainly gets a close view of it, but it isn't the best place for everybody.

The big downtown crowds who cannot go but a minute or so out of their way to witness the time ball's descent unconsciously agree that the best place to stand is right in front of the new stores of J. G. Bennett & Company at Fifth avenue and Wood street. Here you see a daily throng assembled; men and women who are waiting for their different cars to come along, folks on their way to lunch, shoppers, strangers, et. al. It seems to be just the point from which to gaze up at the great height without breaking your back or being taken unawares by a speeding automobile. Besides there are always some good attractions in Bennett's windows. While waiting for the time ball to drop you can see any number of men taking a glimpse of the latest fashions in hats and furnishings, and women admiring the modish things in millinery, suits and dresses.

HOFFMAN'S BROOD OF 13 MELTS HEART OF JUSTICE

Fathers of 13 children are privileged to sleep in the borough streets of Braddock. Burgess James Purcell established this precedent yesterday morning in placing the borough on record as being opposed to race suicide, but too modest to establish a hero fund. Thomas Hoffman of Swissvale, was before the limb of the law on a charge of drunkenness and making his bed on Braddock avenue. Burgess Purcell promptly fined him for ignobling the sidewalk, whereupon Hoffman remarked that 13 of his sons and daughters would be disappointed in not having him home for dinner. "Discharged," interrupted the burgess erasing the judgment. "Many of us would have to sleep in the street if we had 13 children." Hoffman is now seeking advice as to whether 13 children are lucky or otherwise.

WOULD MARCH TROOPS OVERLAND TO ERIE

Gen. Hulings of Sixteenth Explains How He Is Obliged to Abandon Plan.

Gen. Willis J. Hulings of Oil City, commander of the Sixteenth regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, was in Pittsburgh yesterday and during the afternoon met Maj. Lew A. Anshutz, quartermaster-general of the Second brigade, in Fifth avenue. They talked over the preparations for the summer encampment at Erie.

"Everything's shipshape," said Maj. Anshutz. "Now it's all up to the Sixteenth."

"And the Sixteenth is ready, sir," responded the general. "It's too bad that one of my pet plans has been spoiled," continued Gen. Hulings. "I had arranged to march the Sixteenth overland to Erie. It would have been fine practice for the boys and would have given them a taste of actual campaigning.

"If each company could have drawn a war map of the roads and the topography of the country, as the German army does, we could have made 15 miles a day with ease. This comparatively slow progress would have acclimated the men and brought them into camp in prime condition for drills and inspections. I hoped to equip them with only a blanket and traveling rations and send them forward in genuine warlike array. Unfortunately the majority of the boys could not spare the time. The state makes no provision for this sort of summer transportation and the idea was abandoned. Some day, however, we shall give our militia just this sort of training."

KINDNESS AND TIPS PROVE IRRESISTIBLE

Negro Burglar's White Sweetheart Tells How Her Heart Was Won.

Harry Gracey, the alleged negro burglar arrested Monday, has been identified with 12 burglaries in this city. Stolen goods found in his possession have been claimed by that many families. Susie Taylor, the pretty young white girl who passed as his wife at 123 Fifth avenue, will be held for receiving stolen goods. Gracey and his young companion will be arraigned for a hearing Saturday.

Both prisoners were before Superintendent McQuaide yesterday. The girl maintains she did not know her colored lover was a thief. Superintendent McQuaide asked her how she met Gracey and why she passed as his wife.

She told McQuaide that Gracey was formerly a driver for the Excelsior Cab Company and she was employed in a restaurant opposite the Union station. Gracey went in the place at midnight to get his lunch. She said he seemed kind and gave her tips. She once remarked she wanted to take a short trip and he gave her $5 for railroad fare. Then she wanted to get some clothes and Gracey gave her the money.

"In that way he won me over," she said.

Susie Taylor has three sisters whom the detectives have learned are respectable hard working girls. They are employed in department stores and were shocked by their sister's disgrace. They informed the detectives they will all leave the city. When Gracey was arrested he had a robust, daring appearance. Three days behind the bars have changed him considerably and yesterday he seemed meek and dejected.

The trouble broke out at 2 a. m. yesterday and three had injuries dressed at St. John's General hospital. Four were captured by the police were each fined $10 and costs by Magistrate Harkins.

WILL GO AHEAD ON WABASH WORK

RAMSEY LEAVES FOR THE EAST

Work to equip the Wabash lines east of Toledo with the facilities that will enable it to handle its full share of Pittsburgh traffic will be started at once.

The announcement was made last evening by B. A. Worthington, first vice president of the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal and the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroads. Mr. Worthington returned yesterday morning from the conference on Tuesday with George J. Gould, at which time Mr. Delano and he went over the situation here thoroughly and made their recommendations.

"Our conference with Mr. Gould was thoroughly satisfactory," he said yesterday. "The work of providing the needed facilities will go forward at once.

"At Huron the Wheeling & Lake Erie harbor, there will be installed an additional coal loading machine of the modern type which dumps an entire carload into the vessel. There is one such machine there already. Orders will be placed as soon as possible for an up-to-date ore unloading machine and this will be installed in time to be put into service with the opening of navigation next spring. It will enable us to handle our ore traffic far more satisfactorily than is possible with the present equipment.

Will Reach More Plants.

"At the harbor storage tracks and other facilities will be built this summer, while the weather allows such work. Along the line of the Wheeling & Lake Erie passing tracks will be lengthened in some cases, and where needed new ones will be laid to enable the handling of a much larger number of trains in both directions.

"Our efforts here will be to reach as many industrial plants as possible, of course. I expect that the connection with the Clair Terminal railroad at Clairton will be arranged shortly. Other plans will be developed also.

"The 50 new consolidated freight engines we are receiving will give us the motive power to handle the increased business. I do not believe that we shall be entirely free of congestion this fall, but I do expect that another season will see us in good shape.

"The problems here appear entirely solvable, and I am pleased to undertake working them out. The situation is one of much promise. In a short while the new lines should be earning their fixed charges and a dividend on the stock."

Ramsey Leaves for New York.

J. Ramsey, Jr., until recently president of the Wabash lines, left last evening for New York, accompanied by J. W. Patterson, to wind up his business affairs preliminary to sailing for Europe tomorrow. It is expected that some decision may be reached today in regard to the f[illegible] of the "Little Kanawha Syndicate." Mr. Ramsey held conferences here yesterday with President J. T. HARWICK HORROR COMES UP AGAIN

Italian Consul Wants to Know Why Relief Fund Has Not Been Distributed.

FORTY OF HIS NATION KILLED

The Italian colony is all agog with talk of alleged delay in the distribution of the Harwick disaster relief fund. While no Italians in Pittsburgh expect personally to be benefited by the fund, some of them have heard from Italy, where surviving relatives of 40 Italians killed in the memorable mining disaster are waiting for their portion of the relief fund.

The Italian consul, Lionel Scelsi, was asked yesterday what truth there was in the report that the Italian beneficiaries had not yet received any proportion of the fund.

"Not that I know of," said Mr. Scelsi, "and from inquiries I am receiving every day from Italy, I am positive the money has not been distributed. It is true 40 of my countrymen were killed in the disaster and that the committee having the Harwick relief in charge asked the consulate for a list of the families of the Italian victims and proofs of identity, etc., so as to learn who were entitled to a share of the fund.

Has Receipt for Documents.

"I was unable to learn to whom I ought to send these documents, having been informed that the secretary, Mr. Nedley, had moved away and had no further connection with the committee, but finally I sent the proofs, addressed to the 'Secretary of the Cheswick Relief Fund Committee,' by registered mail, and received back from the postoffice department the regulation card, showing that H. C. McGraw, treasurer of the fund, had received the documents.

"However, outside of that receipt, I have no knowledge that the committee ever received the proofs. I am unable to learn who the members of the committee now are.

"Andrew Carnegie gave to the relief fund an amount equal to the sum subscribed by the public, and I believe that Mr. Carnegie's contribution was about $40,000. I feel sure that the subscribers to the fund, including Mr. Carnegie, would not approve of this delay if they knew of it. The accident happened on January 25, 1904, and the bulk of the money has not yet been distributed. I hold that the fund is the property of the beneficiaries, that the committee was appointed for the purpose of seeing that the money is properly distributed only to the right people, and that it should settle up the business as speedily as possible.

Poor and Needed the Money.

"The Italian victims of the disaster were poor miners. I know that they were the only support of their families. It seems to me that if the gentlemen of the committee are too busy to examine the documents I sent them long ago and to go ahead with the distribution of the fund, they ought to put the business into the care of men who have more leisure, remembering that, if they have not the time to attend to the matter, neither can 'the victims' families wait any longer."

H. C. McGraw, treasurer of the fund, had gone to Meadville yesterday and could not be reached. He lives in Cheswick. Nobody authorized to speak officially for the relief committee could be found, but others said they understood the committee would soon be ready to make a final distribution, and if the proofs furnished by the Italian consul were complete, the Italian beneficiaries of the fund would soon get whatever money is due them.

SOCIETY

IN EVERY detail of the wedding of Miss Nell Young Hay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hay of Clyde street, and Jacob Francis Meyers, there was evidence of the bride's originality of thought and idea. It was an exceptionally beautiful wedding and was characterized by exquisite decorations and gowning. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock last evening in the bell room of the Hotel Schenley by the Rev. Dr. Daniel Dorchester, Jr., pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal church. The bride, given away by her father, had her sister, Mrs. William J. Langenheim, as matron of honor. The best man was George Lehman of Bethlehem. The wedding procession was led by the ushers, Legh R. Meyers, George Costello and Albert Broadhead, all of Bethlehem, Howe Shelly of Tyrone, and Harry D. Hamilton of Pittsburgh. They were followed by the bridesmaids, each of whom wore a gown of imported chiffon liberty silk. Each gown was made after the same pattern, but each was in a different color, thus giving an unique, rainbow-like effect. Miss Edna Little, in pale blue and carrying blue bachelor buttons, came first and was followed by Miss Helen Meyers in pink and carrying pink sweet peas; Miss Mildred Meyers in green with maidenhair ferns and followed with white sweet peas, and by Miss Ada Sorg, who was in lavendar and carried a bouquet of thistles to match. The maid of honor, Miss Marguerite Temple O'Neill, was gowned in white and carried pink roses, while Mrs. Langenheim appeared in white chiffon taffeta and carried an armful of American beauty roses. The bridal robe was an exquisite creation of white satin and point applique. It was made with a full court train and her veil hung in the tulle veil. A diamond pendant was the bride's only ornament and her flowers were white orchids.

The ball room was brilliantly lighted and beautifully decorated, wicker standards filled with white lilies and phlox forming the aisle for the bridal party. The background was of palms and lilies, while the stage represented a garden scene. Supper was served in the large dining-room adjoining, each table having a low centerpiece of various flowers. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mrs. George H. Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Meyers, Jr.; William B. Meyers, Francis Weiss, all of Bethlehem; Mrs. Alonzo Rosenberger, Mrs. Joseph Smaltz and Mrs. Elizabeth Smaltz of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. James Fuller of Collingdale; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Arthur Sorg of New York city; Mrs. P. J. Sorg and Judge William Dechant of Middletown, O. After the reception, at which the bridesmaids received, and the wedding supper, Mr. and Mrs. Meyers began their wedding trip at the conclusion of which they will be at home in Bethlehem, where they have announced days at home after September 1.

Kiefer-Catlin.

Yellow and white were the colors chosen for the wedding of Miss Elsie Elizabeth Kiefer and Sheldon Catlin of Bridgeport, Conn., which took place last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Kiefer, in Bellevue. The Rev. Alonzo J. Turkle, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, Allegheny, was the officiant, the ceremony being performed at 6:30 o'clock, with a bridal party including Miss Cornelia J. Catlin as maid of honor, and little Miss Elizabeth Rodgers of Bellevue as flower girl. George R. Catlin as best man and Arthur M. Marsh, Egbert Marsh of Bridgeport and Ralph W. Kiefer, the bride's brother, as ushers. The bridal gown was fashioned of white chiffon taffeta and rose point lace. The veil was caught with a spray of orange blossoms and a shower of white roses and valley lilies were carried. Miss Catlin appeared in a gown of yellow mousseline and carried marguerites. The little flower girl, with a basket of yellow and white daisies, wore a simple little frock of white. White roses, marguerites, with marguerite floral shades composed the decorative scheme. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Catlin left for the east, from where they will sail next Saturday for a two-months' tour of Europe. On their return they will reside for a time with Mr. and Mrs. Kiefer in Bellevue.

Schmitt-McGarrett.

The wedding of Miss Grace May Schmitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt, and Francis L. McGarrett of New York took place last evening in the Roman Catholic church of SS. Peter and Paul, the Rev. Joseph Suhr officiating. The bride was attended by a maid of honor, her sister, Miss Lavinia A. Schmitt, and by Miss Maude S. McGarrett and Miss Florence A. McGarrett, as bridesmaids. Miss Alfreda Schmitt and Miss Georgetta Schmitt performed the duties of flower girls. The men in the party were D. Joseph Donohoe of New York, best man; Hugh S. Getty, Edgar C. Schmitt, J. B. Curley and P. Stanley Boyle, who acted as ushers. The music, by Mrs. Agnes Vogel Roberts and Jean de Bacher, was a feature of the wedding. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Black street, and later in the evening the couple began their wedding trip. At-home rays in New York city have been announced for after August 1.

Bald-Simmons.

A very pretty wedding was that of Miss Claire Lazear Bald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bald of Sprague avenue, Bellevue, and William Marcellus Simmons of Chicago, which took place at the home of the bride at 8 o'clock last night, the Rev. George Shaffer of Bellevue officiating. The attendants were: Miss Sara Bald, a sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Harry Cornell of Suspension Bridge, N. Y., and Miss Alexander Cameron of Cleveland as bridesmaids. Alexander Cameron of Cleveland was best man and Claire Lazear Melvin, a cousin of the bride, acted as flower girl. No reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons will take an extensive wedding trip and will be at home to their friends August 15 in Cleveland.

Jack-Pierce.

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Jack, Ridge avenue, Crafton, when their daughter, Miss Edith Miller Jack, was united in marriage with James A. Pierce of Pittsburg. AMONG THE CLUBS

Kindergarten College Commencement.

Quite an ovation was accorded Miss Allee Snyder yesterday afternoon at the commencement exercises of the Kindergarten college, which were conducted in the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music. Miss Snyder, who has charge of the department of music in the college, has composed during the last two years a number of very dainty and exquisite songs, some of which are especially adapted to kindergarten work. The students yesterday sang a "Christmas Hymn," one of four festival songs on the program, its composer was Miss Snyder.

The commencement exercises were short and simple. Mrs. James I. Buchanan, the president of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Free Kindergarten association, presided, and introduced the speaker, the Rev. Dr. Alfred Arundel, rector of Trinity church, who spoke on the importance of early child training. Miss Lucy Wheelock, principal of the kindergarten training school in Boston, was to have been the speaker, but the serious illness of her father prevented her coming.

In awarding the certificates for the first year, and the post-graduate work and diplomas for the completion of the college course covering two years, Mrs. Buchanan made special mention of the work which Miss Lydia Kasparova has done, Miss Kasparova having come from Bohemia two years ago to take up the study of kindergarten methods in order to start a school among the Bohemians in Western Pennsylvania. Mrs. Buchanan announced that a kindergarten school will be opened in September under the direction and support of the Shadyside Presbyterian church, and Miss Kasparova will be the director. It will be for the Bohemian children near McKees Rocks. Attention was also called to Miss Graciela Chito, a young Cuban girl, who entered the college last fall to take up some special work. Her record was so good and she was so successful in the morning practice in the kindergartens that instead of remaining for special work only she will be awarded a diploma at the close of next year.

The graduates included Miss Grace Alberta Armstrong, Miss Gertrude Elizabeth Conn, Miss Mazie Cooper, Miss Laura Keys Hale, Miss Lydia Anna Kasparova, Miss Jessie McKee, Miss Josephine Meching, Miss Gertrude Elizabeth Miles, Miss Bessie Phillips, Miss Estelle M. Rockwood and Miss Florence Edna Rosenbauer. Those completing the post-graduate course were Miss Nellie Elizabeth Bagress, Miss Maude Louise Crawford, Miss Anna May Crowe, Miss Nellie Katherine Ecke, Miss Susan M. Himmelreight, Miss Luella Lincoln Kennedy, Miss Alice Lee Lytle and Miss Louise Harrison MacMillan. The juniors who received certificates for one year's work were Miss Lena Allison, Miss Inez Irene Darragh, Miss Mary Campbell, Miss Aserene Elliott Cavitt, Miss Helen Bell Clark, Miss Clorinda Cutto, Miss Eleanor D. Gillespie, Miss Evelyn Hamill, Miss Edith White Hunnett, Miss Florence Ilsis Rayser, Miss Lucy Roethen, Miss Lillian Scott Mortland, Miss Rose Montgomery Russell, Miss Violet L. Sanford, Miss Clara Selden Simpson, Miss Beatrice G. Wade, Miss Elaine Brook Waugh and Miss Mary Emma Yost.

Miss Estelle M. Rockwood of the graduating class has been awarded the scholarship of the alumnae association for post-graduate work.

Pittsburgh Women Honor the Flag.

An exceptionally beautiful day, a worthy cause and almost ideal surroundings combined to make the observances of flag day by the Daughters of the American Revolution a most successful one. A garden party was given yesterday by the Pittsburgh chapter at Rosehill, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. McCallum, in Evergreen. Mrs. Francis T. Lovejoy was there with a party in her big automobile, many of the women driving out from Pittsburgh and Allegheny, while the committee of arrangements had a large number of traps and carriages at the end of the auto car line, which the majority of the guests used, and carried the women to Rosehill, more than a mile from the street car terminal. The roadway was indicated at short intervals by small flags crossed, but the chief struggle could not lose his way. At Rosehill an immense flag hung before the entrance, where the guests were received, each one entering being presented with a little flag and pin to be worn as an emblem. Within the house flags were used almost altogether as decoration. The chapter flag, a large blue silk banner edged with gold fringe and bearing the insignia of the society, occupied a prominent place. In the music room a large bay window was emphasized by its decorations, small flags in groups of two. There was no formal reception. Mrs. McCallum and her daughters, Miss Eleanor McCallum and Miss May McCallum, who recently returned from a winter spent in Europe, hospitably greeting the guests in different parts of the grounds, while the regent, Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, and the officers of the chapter, were distributed about the place. Tables and chairs were placed upon the lawn and refreshments were served informally, a group of young women looking after the guests. The American Military band played during the afternoon. There were nearly 400 women in attendance, but the size of the place prevented anything like a crowd. Among the few men who looked in on the garden party were Mr. McCallum, S. Jarvis Adams and Samuel A. Ammon. Miss Kate C. MacKnight, who has been east for a couple of weeks, returned for the affair. The committee in charge of the affair yesterday, Mrs. Horace Gillespie Dravo being general chairman, included the following: Decorations and music, Miss Mary McCallum, Miss Eleanor McCallum, Mrs. John A. Aull and Miss Mary O'Hara Darlington; invitations, Mrs. David Kirk, Mrs. Charles R. Wray and Mrs. John G. Everson; refreshments, Mrs. Edward Elsing Seull, Mrs. George Heard, Mrs. Mortimer C. Miller, Mrs. Alexander M. Jenkinson and Mrs. Thomas Hartley.

Organize New Society.

A new juvenile court society was organized last evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Rauh in Bartlett street, Squirrel hill, under the auspices of the Columbian Council of Jewish Women. The new society received the name of the Juvenile Court Aid society, and will be affiliated with the Juvenile Court association. Forty men and women attended the meeting last evening, and much interest was shown in the new organization and the work which it will take up. Already it has nearly 75 members, will employ a probation officer of its own, and proposes to take charge of the children of Jewish nationality who come before the juvenile court. The officers elected last evening were: President, Mrs. Enoch Rauh; vice president, Mrs. Josiah Cohen; treasurer, Mrs. S. L. Fleishman; recording secretary, Mrs. Bertha Benswanger; corresponding secretary, Miss Yetta Baumgarten. The executive board comprises Mrs. A. Leo Weil, Mrs. Hugo Rosenberg, Mrs. Jacob Kaufmann, Mrs. Jacob Sissel, Mrs. A. Sunstein, Mrs. Samuel Frank, Mrs. Morris Kaufmann, Mrs. M. M. Lesser, Mrs. Isaac Wildberg, Mrs. M. Levine, Mrs. Samuel Kaufman, Mrs. Ludwig Kaufmann, Mrs. Herman Jonas, Mrs. Henry Oppenheimer, Mrs. L. J. Adler, Mrs. J. H. Cohen, Miss Ella Wertheimer and Mrs. William Klee. An advisory board was elected composed of A. Leo Weil, Joseph Cohen, I. W. Frank, Nathaniel Spear, Marcus Aaron, Abraham Lipman, M. Oppenheimer, Isaac Wildberg, Enoch Rauh, Kastel Solomon, Charles Dreifus, Philip Hamburger, Max Rothschild, Hugo Sidenberg, A. J. Sunstein, John A. Ferley, Joseph Schoenfeld, Henry Jackson, W. L. Kann and Leon Wertheimer.

Arousing Interest in Juvenile Court.

The mass meeting in the First Presbyterian church, Wilkinsburg, in the interest of the juvenile court, will be held this evening under the auspices of the propaganda committee of the Juvenile Court association. Miss Kate C. McKnight, president of the association, returned yesterday from the east and will be one of the speakers this evening. Mrs. Joseph D. Arnold, second vice president of the association and a member of the propaganda committee, will preside and preceding the meeting will give a dinner for the men and women who will speak. Her guests will include Miss McKnight, Mrs. Alice B. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Segor, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Stewart, E. E. Rowland, T. Will Pierson and the Rev. T. N. E. Wells.

Inspecting the New Hospital.

St. Barnabas Guild met on Tuesday evening in the new Eye and Ear hospital. There was but little business to come before the guild, and the evening was given up largely to inspecting the new hospital, the physicians, nurses and clergymen who compose the guild being shown from one department to another and seeing every portion of the institution under the guidance of the local staff. Afterward refreshments were served. The guild will not meet again until in August.

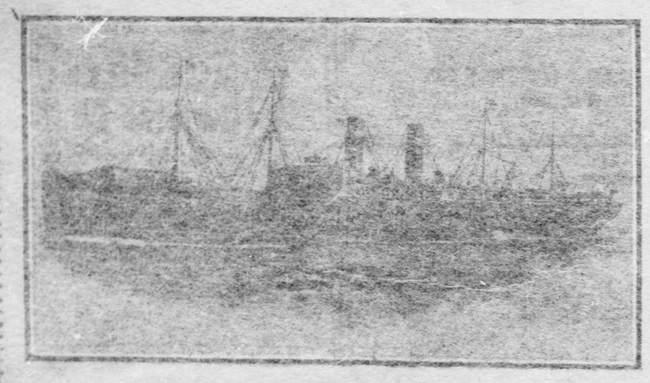
THE TWIN-SCREW S. S. KROONLAND OF THE RED STAR LINE STEAMSHIPS



Ocean traveling, as it is enjoyed on the boats of the Red Star Line, has grown to be a luxury, instead of a trip to be dreaded. Four great steamers, the Finland, Kroonland, Vaderland and Zeeland, make up the fleet, and it is one of the finest in service today. The feature of the Red Star Line is that it does not seek to appear in the class of ocean racers. Reasonable speed and perfect comfort for passengers is the thing the company most insists upon.

The four vessels of the line are exactly alike, each being 12,760 tons, 560 feet long and 60 feet beam. The two first named were launched in 1901 and the others in 1902, so the boats are practically new. Each boat offers three handsome decks: the promenade, upper and saloon deck. Stateroom accommodations are provided for 204 passengers in the deck house and deck next below the promenade. On the saloon deck there are rooms for 106 first-class passengers. These staterooms are all unusually large, lighted by outside light and fitted with electric light bells, telephones and all the latest conveniences. All these rooms are finished in mahogany. Music room, library, smoking rooms and all the other luxuries of ocean travel are provided. Altogether a trip in the steamers of the Red Star Line is like boarding at a most comfortable family hotel ashore. A feature of these boats is the Marconi wireless telegraph system, with which each is fitted. Regular communication is kept up between the boats and the shore, the latest news is received and messages sent and received by passengers, thus expediting many business and social affairs.

PIRATES PLAY LIKE AMATEURS

Boston Team Is Given a Game Through Stupid Play by Clarke's Crew.

MOORE IS GIVEN A TRYOUT

The exhibition of baseball put up by the Pirates yesterday afternoon, when the Boston team was allowed to walk away with the third game of the series, with a score of 5 to 3, was disgusting. It is hard to conceive how a team with the playing ability of the local club could so far forget their training. The Pirates should be doing business in a schoolboy league.

The work of the team was so bad that the 2,200 people became disgusted and actually took to rooting for the visiting team. Mike Lynch started off as the Pirates' twirler and his first act was to nearly cave in the first batter's ribs with the ball. Following this the infield went to pieces and after two runs had been scored, Flaherty was called to the rescue. When Lynch walked in from the field the spectators showed how they regarded the display by wildly applauding and calling for Clarke to remove some of the other players who were making exhibitions of themselves.

The team took a brace back of Flaherty and wound up the disgraceful inning by a fast double play. The improvement was short lived, however, for in the third inning the visitors were allowed to score another run without making a hit. After the visitors had scored two more runs in the sixth inning and the game looked like a hopeless one from a Pirate standpoint, Manager Clarke thought it a good time to try out his new twirler, Frank (Peggy) Moore, the tall sycamore of the Tuscaroras. This pitcher is beyond question the tallest man in the baseball business at present, and he looks and acts as though he just came in from the farms.

During the three innings that he officiated not a run was scored, but this was largely due to most sensational fielding and had the locals made the same kind of a display when Lynch was in the box there is no question of where the victory would have landed. The visitors were credited with two hits by Moore, one a three-bagger by Abbattichio and the other a single by Wolverton. The big fellow has a world of speed and a fine drop curve, but he is very awkward in the box and shows that he is in need of experience.

Homer Hillebrand, the ex-Princeton player, was sent in to catch Moore and the exhibition put up by this young player was most pleasing, in fact it was a matter of comment that his work was all that could be desired. He is a left-hand thrower and had but one chance to show himself in that line and he shot the ball down to Wagner on a line and Hans dropped the throw. Hillebrand's showing was one of the few bright spots in the Pirates' performance.

Victor Willis, the Boston's elongated twirler, who was given a bumping on Tuesday, came for another dose yesterday, but it was not delivered for the very good reason that Willis was in his real pitching form, and had the locals guessing in all but the eighth inning, when an error by Tenney, a base on balls and hits by Ritchey and Clymer produced three runs. The Pirates tried for a rally in the ninth and Carisch was sent in to bat for the pitcher, but Willis was too strong for them. The game was more or less of a farce from a playing standpoint, and the spectators were pretty well disgusted. The score:

Will Give Youngsters a Hard Run.

When the Pittsburgh college team and a team made up of part students of the college come together on the college grounds tomorrow afternoon there is sure to be some great sport. The past students have been doing quite a lot of practice work and think they will be able to spring a surprise on the youngsters. Will Totten, who will do the pitching for the past students, has mastered the famous spit ball and promises to do wonders with it.

ANNOUNCE CONDITIONS OF GREAT MOTOR RACE

Owners of Machines Are Notified Regarding Events of the Big Pittsburgh Auto Meet.

W. W. Darley, chairman of the race committee appointed by the Automobile club of Pittsburgh to arrange the great motor meet at Brunots Island race track, June 28 and 29, yesterday sent entry blanks to the owners of fast cars. The 20 horse power cars are the lowest power for which events have been arranged. In many of the events they will go beyond 90 horse power.

There will be nine races each day. On Wednesday is scheduled the 50-mile race for the National motor car championship of the American Automobile association. This race is for a $2,000 trophy, to be decided by a series of races. This race will be 10 miles on the second day.

First prize in each event will be a silver trophy of the value of $50 to $500. All races will be under the rules of the American Automobile association. No prizes will be awarded in case of a walkover, and no second prize unless four start. Three or more entries are necessary to fill each event, if less, it may be declared off.

A flying start will be given in all events except handicaps or where otherwise noted. In all stock car events the machines must be equipped according to manufacturers' catalogue specifications except that lamps, horns, baskets and tops need not be carried. The first event will be started at 2 p. m. each day. Special match races and exhibitions may be arranged by the management.

College Team's Easy Victory.

The Pittsburgh college nine played and defeated Loughridge A. C. of Brighton on the Bluff yesterday afternoon, 19 to 3. The game never was in doubt after the third inning, the collegians landing on Rube Henning and driving him from the box. Gestric, who relieved him, was not much of an improvement, the collegians finding him for seven hits and eight runs. The score:

The Silk Suit Sale That is Astonishing Pittsburgh's Women

One week ago we published in the Pittsburgh papers the most remarkable bargain news told in many a day—thousands of women read and responded to the advertisement with the result that this week has more than doubled the business of our suit section over any previous high record. In fact, were it not for our immense department, spacious fitting rooms and augmented sales force the crowds would have overwhelmed us—but as it is all were fitted and pleased.

It is unnecessary to go into details here of how we purchased thousands of yards of fine silks from a big silk mill which was overstocked and how these silks were transformed into beautiful bewitching garments under contract with one of the leading wholesale tailors.

It is enough to say that we saved about 50% on the cost of the silk and owing to the immense deal with the maker whose season was practically over and who was glad to keep his operatives working—gave us considerable price-concession in the matter of making up. This means that we can sell these suits for less than you can buy the materials for at retail.

Through our tremendous buying facilities and foresight in promoting this deal we have actually captured the Pittsburgh market for silk suits, and are offering them just when they are wanted, at away below what any woman would expect to pay.

This sale has been on a week but the stocks are undiminished—the magnitude of the purchase gave us enough silk suits to meet the tremendous demand and since the sale started later shipments have been received almost every day, filling in sizes and styles which were sold out. One word of warning, however—this sale cannot last always—such conditions as these are impossible to create every day and any woman can well afford to buy several of these suits for summer vacation or city wear at these prices.

THREE COLLEGE CREWS ARE NOW AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Columbia, Cornell and Pennsylvania Oarsmen Are at Their Training Quarters Ready for Work.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 14.—The arrival of Pennsylvania this afternoon made the coterie of crews on the river in the evening three in all. Columbia, Cornell and the new arrivals all had their boats out in force, and the river fairly swarmed with oarsmen at 5:30 o'clock. Cornell's squad had a rest all morning, owing to the hot weather, and as Pennsylvania did not get in until after 2 o'clock, Columbia was the only college to do any morning rowing. The New Yorkers had a long paddle, doing nothing much because of the heat, which was intense. The crews were boated in the same order as followed the shakeup and it is now thought that it will be unchanged by Goodwin, the coach of the New Yorkers.

The river late in the evening presented the regular sight that persons here have become familiar with. Pennsylvania's three crews, followed by the launch, started out, tacking in behind the Cornell fleet. All rowed up the river. The red and blue oarsmen were rowing a very low stroke, somewhere in the neighborhood of 20 to the minute, and went up past the Columbia boathouse at Krum Elbow. Passing the Columbia quarters, the Pennsylvanians were greeted with a cheer from the New Yorkers, which was returned by the men in the shells.

The Quakers rowed about 10 miles all told, at a mere conversational pace, to get the kinks of travel out of their muscles.

Cornell came up to the starting point rowing with the usual trimness and neat style of the Ithaca boatmen. Courtney took his men down over the full course, steering way out into the middle of the river, in order to avoid the Columbia launch, which was coming up with freshmen.

THE SUBURBAN HANDICAP WILL BE AN EXCITING RACE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, June 14.—Sheepshead, with its green stretches and splendid racing courses reaching almost to the seashore, will witness the 22nd running of the greatest of American handicaps tomorrow—the suburban. Bright skies are forecasted, a fast track has been prepared and a goodly field of thoroughbreds will contend for the $20,000 stake, all of which gives promise of a record-breaking crowd to witness the winning of the race that to this country is what the Derby is to England or the premier classic is in other lands.

Though only 12 horses are carded to go, it is a well-matched field with the possible chance of any of the number reaching the wire in the lead, from Delhi, who carries the heaviest impost, to the lightly weighted Ostrich, with the feather Crimmins on his back.

Those inspired by the Keene and Belmont stables have given of their best, and Delhi, who carried the colors of James R. Keene to victory in the last Brooklyn, and whose winnings the previous year were greater than any other horse in the east, and Beldame, August Belmont's splendid little mare, who in the name of Newton Bennington last season won 5 of 6 in her 14 starts, will divide public favor. Which of the two will be installed the actual money favorite at post

RULE OF DECENCY IN ALL CONTRACTS

Judge Instructs Jury in the Gould-Haydel Dispute About Architect's Plans.

WOMAN DENIES PROFANITY

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 14.—Justice Keogh summed up the Gould-Haydel case in Mineola, L. I., this afternoon and gave it into the hands of the jury, with instructions to return a sealed verdict tomorrow. In his charge to the jury Justice Keogh dwelt at such length upon the Waldorf-Astoria interview between Architect Haydel and Mrs. Howard Gould, as to indicate that he thought her conduct on that occasion justified Haydel's suit.

"They met at the Waldorf and discussed plans for the building," said Justice Keogh. "Mrs. Gould instructed Mr. Haydel to make alterations in the plans which he thought were unreasonable. Finally Mrs. Gould lost her temper. She became intemperate in her language, and she exclaimed: 'Throw the damned architect out!' Mr. Haydel left and wrote a letter to Mr. Gould complaining of this treatment. He said he would not meet Mr. Gould again at the Waldorf, where he had been insulted, but would meet him anywhere else. Did this failure to meet Mr. Gould at the Waldorf constitute a breach of contract?

"Underlying all contracts are certain rules of decent conduct to be lived up to. Did Mrs. Gould then inflict such humiliation upon Mr. Haydel as to justify him in refusing to again visit the Waldorf? Why not? If you believe Mrs. Gould's version of that interview and the circumstances, Mr. Haydel is not entitled to recover more than the original 1 per cent. I leave that, gentlemen, for you to decide."

Mrs. Gould absented herself from the court room during the summing up of counsel for Haydel at the request of her own attorney, who feared that some angry outburst during the speech might prejudice her case. In the ante-room of the court Mrs. Gould expressed relief at the termination of the ordeal through which she had passed on the witness stand.

"I am glad it is all over," she said. "I told the facts as I knew them. It is unpleasant to be dragged into the public gaze in this way, but I am tired of being imposed upon."

On the witness stand Mrs. Gould dramatically and vigorously denied that she had ever called Mr. Haydel a "damned architect."

IS AMERICAN SCHOOLED.

Judge Peter S. Grosscup, the eminent Chicago jurist, who is here as a edlegate to the biennial convention of the general synod of the Lutheran church in America, reiterated his opposition to municipal ownership in an interview yesterday morning.

Judge Grosscup discussed the statement recently attributed to James Dalrymple of Glasgow, Scotland, who investigated the conditions in Chicago from his vie ipoint, being in charge of municipal street car systems of Glasgow. He is said to have declared that municipal ownership in America was impractical because of the political patronage it would offer. Judge Grosscup held that the humorous feature of the Scotchman's visit was the fact that he had learned the street railway business from Americans.

"Glasgow's municipal ownership of its street railways is the result of American advice and American capital," said Judge Grosscup. "George Westinghouse equipped the cars and Americans financed them. As a matter of fact it took these Americans just about six months to teach the Scotchmen how to run the street cars and when Chicago sent for the head of the operating department of the Glasgow lines, a man was secured who had been instructed at great length by men who are in America now."

Oriental Steamships.

The Great Northern Steamship Company announces that the steamship Dakota will sail from Seattle on her maiden trip for the orient on July 20, and that her sister ship, the Minnesota, will sail on her third trip early in August. The exact date will be announced later. The company makes a special feature of passenger travel on these enormous ships, which have been especially constructed in the United States to comply with the highest class of Lloyd's register, and to meet the special requirements of trans-Pacific travel. They have luxurious passenger accommodations, which, it is claimed, are unequaled by any vessels on the Pacific and are unsurpassed on the Atlantic. The company makes a rate of $367.50 for a round trip to Hongkong and return. The time required from Seattle is 70 days, of which 26 are spent in the round trip to Hongkong and 44 days in Japan, China and Asiatic waters. The fare includes a free ride on the Japanese rail lines between Yokohama and Nagasaki. Further details of these excursions can be obtained from any railway ticket agent.

WAGE INCREASES ARE UNDER FIRE

Jail Warden Lewis, Physician Chessrown and Engineer Davis Want Money Now.

JUDGES ARE CONSIDERING

Whether Jail Warden Edwin Lewis and Jail Physician A. V. Chessrown get the increase in wages voted them by the state legislature is a question that was put up to the prison board at its last meeting. The warden wanted a month's proportion of new salary, $5,000, in lieu of former monthly payments at the rate of $3,000 a year, and Dr. Chessrown wanted $200 for one month's service instead of his old salary of $150.

County Engineer Charles Davis is also looking for money, the legislature having voted him an increase of $1,000 a year at the session of 1903. When Davis at that time asked for the increase the county controller, fortified by the opinion of the county solicitor, Thomas B. Alcorn, declined to pay him the increase, but recently Alcorn reversed himself and Davis now wants the additional money.

When Lewis and Chessrown made their demand at the last meeting of the prison board the board postponed a decision until a committee composed of Judges Marshall Brown, James R. Macfarlane and James S. Young had decided whether the legislative grant of additional salary is valid. The supreme court's decision on the legislature's act giving common pleas judges salaries, figures in this matter. The state treasurer refused to pay the additional salaries to the judges on the ground that it was unconstitutional to increase the compensation of any officer during the term for which he was elected, but the supreme court decided that the law was constitutional.

This decision is the one that caused County Solicitor Alcorn to reverse himself. When Engineer Davis asked for his money two years ago Mr. Alcorn decided that the controller was justified in declining to pay him on the ground that the salary of a public officer could not be diminished or increased during his term of office.

Davis' friends say that Controller Cunningham is not satisfied with Alcorn's latest opinion and that he has asked Judges Young, Brown and Macfarlane to pass upon Davis' claim at the same time they consider Lewis and Chessrown's.

John A. Bell, who was appointed county commissioner by the judges to fill the vacancy caused by the death of J. Gerson Mercer, said today that he would decide today whether or not to accept the appointment. There were rumors that Mr. Bell would decline.

WHY THE I. M. MASON CAME.

Monongahela Valley Packet Forced to Make a Trip to Pittsburgh.

Just because the Brownsville picket, Isaac M. Mason, is at the Smithfield street wharf is no sign her owners wanted her to be. She is there because United States Inspectors Williams and Atkinson on Tuesday ordered the boat to Pittsburgh. The Winifred, another up-river packet, will also be down for the same reason. The inspectors went to Brownsville Tuesday to inspect the boats, the owners notifying them that every equipment was in place and the boats ready. It was discovered, however, neither of the boats had enough life boats, enough life preservers, or enough anything for the business they are engaged in, the inspectors say. The inspectors refused to make an inspection and ordered the captains to bring their boats to Pittsburgh, get outfitted and then inspect.

The C. C. Woodward is laid up for boiler repairs, and the Rose Hite is taking her place.

J. W. Patterson, Jr., late of the Wabash railroad, was a passenger last evening on the Queen City. With his wife he is making the round trip to Cincinnati for rest and recreation.

The Transit, used by the River Coal Company as a harbor boat at Louisville, will arrive here this week and be dry-docked at Elizabeth for repairs.

The machinery of the Relief, the River Coal Company boat sunk at Cincinnati during the ice run last winter, has been raised and shipped to this city.

No coal is being brought down from the upper ports now owing to low water in the Monongahela. Rivermen are confident they will get a coal run out this month, and have plenty of coal for it.

The Queen City from Cincinnati, the Bessie Smith from Parkersburg, and the Columbia from Morgantown were the boats in and out yesterday.

NEW SHOE STORE.

The Hanover Shoe Company Opens a Salesroom on Smithfield Street.

The Gazette takes pleasure in calling the attention of its readers to the handsome new store of the Hanover Shoe Company, recently opened at 518 Smithfield street. This store is one of the 22 stores which the manufacturers operate in as many different cities. The phenomenal sale of the Hanover shoe is largely due to the fact that the shoe is sold direct from the factory to the consumer without the intervention of jobber and retailer, the purchaser being given the benefit of the usual middleman's profit.

For this reason also the manufacturer is able and does give the consumer a very superior product, the most skilled American labor and the very best material being employed.

The Hanover shoe is made for men and boys exclusively and sells at $2.50 and $3. The local store is under the management of William E. Johnson, who was identified with W. M. Laird & Co. for several years.

A REBUKE IN STORE FOR FRANCIS B. LOOMIS

Herbert W. Bowen Is Thought to Have Also Been Indiscreet in Venezuela—Hearing to End Saturday.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Secretary Taft today heard two witnesses in the investigation of the charges preferred against the official integrity of Francis B. Loomis, assistant secretary of state by Herbert W. Bowen, former American minister to Venezuela. Mr. Taft then announced the case would be closed on Saturday. He will then make to the president a recommendation as to what should be done.

Although Mr. Taft has not disclosed his intention, the general impression obtained from the situation is that Mr. Loomis may be rebuked for the indiscretion of some of his business transactions. Whether he will then be promoted is not known. Mr. Bowen is deemed by Mr. Taft and the president to have been most indiscreet, and at one time the president was disposed to dismiss him. But whether this is the idea now cannot be learned.

The first witness today was Pastor Y. Mora, formerly associated with the New York and Bermudez Asphalt Company at Caracas.

Mr. Bowen and Mr. Loomis were again present at the hearing today. Mr. Bowen today attacked Mr. Loomis' explanation that his receipt of a check for $5,000 from Mr. Bean, agent for the asphalt company at Caracas, was a matter of exchange, he giving Mr. Bean the equivalent in Venezuelan currency. Mr. Bowen pointed out at the hearing today that Mr. Loomis had obtained this money through a New York draft dated March 8, 1901, and that Mr. Loomis had stated that he desired at that time to change his Venezuelan currency into American money, because he was preparing to leave Venezula. Mr. Bowen called for the state department's dispatch book and pointed out that the first instruction for Mr. Loomis to leave Caracas came in a cablegram sent from Washington March 25.

Mr. Bowen then stated to Mr. Taft that he considered that this disproved Mr. Loomis' previous statement in that Mr. Loomis could not have known he was going to leave before March 25, yet he explained having made preparations to do so before March 8.

A. L. Barber, head of the Barber Asphalt Company, and formerly president of the New York and Bermudez Company, also appeared before Mr. Taft today. He said no transaction occurred between the asphalt company and Mr. Loomis before he retired from the presidency in 1901. He said he heard stories about the payment of a $10,000 check to Mr. Loomis.

Mr. Taft left Washington this afternoon for Ohio, but will be back on Saturday and will then hear the last witness and close the case.

SHOWER OF COIN JINGLES INTO WAGE EARNERS' LAPS

Mills and Mines of McKeesport District This Week Disbursing Wealth to Their Workmen.

Every day this week is payday at the various mills in McKeesport and mills and mines of surrounding towns. It is estimated that almost a million dollars will be distributed in McKeesport alone. It is the largest pay day since the one just before the holidays.

Monday and Tuesday were paydays at the tube and pipe department of the National Tube works. Yesterday and today the workmen at the rolling mills receive their pay. Friday the Boston Iron and Steel works will distribute pay envelopes to its employes and Saturday the American Sheet Steel and Tin Plate Company will pay its employes.

Other concerns that will distribute vast amounts in wages Saturday are the McKeesport Tin Plate at Port Vue, the several plants at Glassport, the big steel works of the Carnegie Steel Company at Duquesne and the coal mines at Dravosburg, Camden, Elizabeth, Boston, Alpsville, Buena Vista and Scott Haven.

TO IMPROVE IRON PLANT.

Colorado Fuel and Iron Company Will Spend $5,000,000 on Its Property at Pueblo.

NEW YORK, June 14.— (Special.)—President Frank J. Hearne of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company, will shortly let contracts for improvements at the Pueblo plant of the company, costing $5,000,000. The money to complete the improvements was provided at conferences between President Hearne and the Rockefeller-Gould syndicate in New York last week. It is believed the Gould interests in the company will soon be paramount, if they are not now, and that at the next annual meeting many changes will take place.

The possible subordination of the Rockefeller interest in the company is attributed to an endeavor on the part of the syndicate to work out plans for finally turning over the property to the United States Steel Corporation, and this probably could be brought about better through Gould than through Rockefeller.

J. B. M'DONALD'S DAUGHTER MARRIES A CANTON MAN

NEW YORK, June 14.—(Special.)—Miss Georgie McDonald, only child of John B. McDonald, "the man who built the subway," was married this afternoon to Harry B. Reed of Canton, O., by the Rev. Dr. Cobb, at the home of the bride's parents in the Dakota, at Seventy-second street and Central park, west. Mr. Reed is an engineer. He has been in the employ of Mr. McDonald for about 14 years. Mr. and Mrs. Reed will take up residence in the Dakota, after a wedding trip to Mr. Reed's home in Canton.

Death Bed Marriage Legal.

COLUMBUS, O., June 14.—Without listening to arguments from the wife's counsel, Judge Wenty of the United States court today decided that the death-bed marriage of George B. Foersman to Minnie Ashbrook, of Somerset, O., at Smith's hotel, February 15, 1904, was a perfectly legal union. Suit brought by an uncle of Foersman to have the marriage set aside was decided in favor of the defendant. Foersman left a large estate.

WILL IMPROVE ASPECT OF MOROCCAN DISPUTE

Conferences Are Resumed Between the French Premier and the German Ambassador.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

PARIS, June 14.—Premier Rouvier and Prince Von Radolin, the German ambassador, today resumed their conferences at the foreign office relative to Morocco. The tendency of the negotiations is towards securing a direct agreement between France and Germany before determining the question of an international conference.

The official version rather minimizes the importance of the dock concessions which Germans have secured at Tangiers. They are said to be wharf privileges similar to those which the citizens of any country might acquire by paying for them.

There is no confirmation of the report of a German loan to Morocco but official inquiries on the subject are proceeding. In the meantime the authorities say that the conference between Prince von Radolin and M. Rouvier will result in improving the aspect of the Morocco question.

BERLIN, June 14.—The Hamburg-American Steamship Company, the Tageblatt says, is the backbone of the German undertaking to make Tangier, Morocco, a modern port with wharves for large ships. It is also believed that the German navy will thus have acommodations for coaling at Tangier.

PRINTING GOES BEGGING.

Supt. Pomeroy Is Unable to Place the Contract for the Work for Pennsylvania.

HARRISBURG, June 14.—(Special.)—Public Printing Superintendent Pomeroy has not yet found a contractor for the state printing. T. Larry Eyre of West Chester, who has been offered the contract today formally refused it.

The work had previously been refused by Clarence M. Busch of Philadelphia and W. Stanley Ray of Harrisburg. Pomeroy now offers the contract to the Harrisburg Publishing Company, the fourth lowest bidder. The contract of Mr. Ray, the present state printer, expires on June 30. It looks now as if the state would be without a printer all summer.

Six from the Donohoe plant were placed in jail. They are charged with going into the mine before it had been examined by the fire boss and before the danger gates were opened.

Shippers Petition President to Enforce the Anti-Trust Law

A committee of Cincinnati shippers, including H. Lee Early, president of the Cincinnati chamber of commerce; B. H. West, president of the Receivers and Owners' association; M. B. Farrin and E. E. Williamson, commissioners of the Cincinnati shippers, passed through Pittsburgh yesterday on their way to Washington. They carried a petition which will be presented to President Roosevelt urging prosecution of the southern railroads under the Sherman anti-trust law. The petition contains the following statements:

1. To enjoin the Southern Railroad Company and the Atlantic coast line from acquiring or attempting to acquire further stock of railroad companies in southern territory, and from parting with the stock which they now hold in railroads other than the stock of their own companies, etc.

2. To institute proceedings to dissolve the Southeastern Mississippi Valley Traffic association and the Southeastern Traffic association and to enjoin the companies belonging to them from further agreeing or combining or conspiring together to establish or maintain rules, regulations and rates, etc.

Report of Railroad Extension.

The railroad company during the past week has taken 30-day options on several tracts of land near the Somerset & Cambria branch in the northern part of town. It is said this tract of land will be utilized for yards and freight stations. There are thousands of acres of coal land in Somerset county that have never been touched, and their development would add greatly to the production of the county.

Snively, commercial freight agent of the Lehigh Valley at Philadelphia, was here Tuesday helping to open the office and get Painter acquainted with the city and traffic men. TAKES A HAND IN EXCLUSION LAW

President Roosevelt Directs That Immigration Officers Exercise Discretion.

TO AVERT CHINESE BOYCOTT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 14.—President Roosevelt is manifesting a deep interest in the statements made to him last Monday by a delegation of members of the American Asiatic association, concerning the difficulties which hitherto have been experienced by Chinese merchants, students, travelers and literary men in gaining admission to this country. The complaints of the Chinese government about the alleged humiliation to which members of these classes of the Chinese are subjected upon their arrival in the United States, together with the threats of the commercial guilds of China to retaliate by boycotting the American-made goods, have aroused the business men of this country to protest against what they have regarded as unreasonable discrimination in the enforcement of the Chinese exclusion laws.

In a letter to Secretary Metcalf of the department of commerce and labor, the president directs him to see that the immigration officers exercise discretion in the enforcement of the exclusion law, to the end that the relations of this government with China may continue to be cordial.

It is pointed out that great difficulty is experienced by the immigration officials in executing the law, because of the many bogus certificates which are presented by Chinese. It is a well-understood fact that, for a consideration, a Chinese coolie may procure in China a certificate that he is a merchant or a traveler or a member of another of the exempt classes. On its face, the certificate entitles him to admission to the United States. So many frauds have been discovered in the matter of these certificates that immigration officials examine all of them most carefully. That fact accounts for the trouble experienced by genuine merchants and travelers when they arrive at United States ports.

Thus far, no feasible plan has been worked out to remedy the trouble of which the Chinese complain. Secretary Metcalf is in favor of congressional legislation on the subject providing for a rigid supervision of the issue of certificates in China, the idea being to hold absolutely responsible for the accuracy of the statements contained in the certificates the officials who issue them.

STOCKS ALMOST STAGNANT, BUT PRICES WERE FIRM

Reading, Atchison and Canadian Pacific Were the Strongest—Pittsburgh Coal Led the Dealings on the Local Board.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday was almost stagnant, the sales for the first two hours amounting to only 112,000 shares, and the total for the day approximating only 270,000 shares. The operations for London account were wholly insignificant. London quotations for American securities were higher, but there was no response on this side, and during the morning session prices declined slightly. In the afternoon there was a slow but steady recovery and final sales were at or near the highest of the day.

Reading, Atchison and Canadian Pacific were the strongest of the railroads, and closed 1¼@2 per cent higher for the day. The advance in Reading was due to the old report that the directors would this month declare a semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent, thus placing the stock on a 4 per cent basis, but inasmuch as there are some preferred stocks that are not selling much above the current price for Reading common, the latter would seem to be high enough if there is nothing better than a 4 per cent dividend basis on which to bull the stock. Atchison rose to 82¼ and closed at the best. This road will benefit by a good yield of winter wheat, harvesting of which is now in progress. Canadian Pacific, which rose to 151½, will benefit by the increased spring wheat acreage in its territory.

Union Pacific and St. Paul played a less conspicuous part as leaders, but ruled firm and closed higher. The banking house connected with the affairs of Union Pacific was said to be a buyer of the stock. The Pennsylvania group was firm and closed fractionally higher. There was not much doing in the southern stocks, but prices held steady. Metropolitan Street Railway was the only prominent stock to close at a loss. Brooklyn Rapid Transit closed ⅛ per cent higher. Western Union Telegraph, which has been neglected for weeks, displayed a little activity, which was not explained, and closed higher.

The most important change in the industrial list was a further 5-point drop in American Steel Foundries preferred, which sold down to 35½, closing at 36½, a net loss of 3 per cent for the day. There was no news to account for this decline, and it was thought to be due to belated liquidation by holders who are discouraged over the dividend outlook. United States Steel stocks were firm, the common closing ⅜ and the preferred ¼ per cent higher. Amalgamated Copper sold off to 78⅞, but recovered to 79⅝, closing with a net gain of ⅝ per cent.

A feature of the New York curb market was the break in Greene Consolidated Gold, which sold down to 2⅝ and closed at 3½. Last spring this stock sold above 8 and the company's affairs received a great deal of attention in the advertising columns of the eastern press. It was reported yesterday that an expert who had been engaged by some of the directors to investigate the actual condition of the property and its future prospects, made an extremely unfavorable report, including the statement that up to date but $500 gold had been produced, and that the value of the entire plant did not exceed $175,000. The decline in this stock had a sympathetic effect upon Greene Copper in the Boston market, and this may have exerted some influence upon Amalgamated Copper.

The call loan market was easy and unchanged, rates being quoted at 2¼@2½ per cent.

Commodity markets were active and irregular. Cotton closed strong and higher, while wheat and corn closed near the lowest prices. Central Kansas and Southern Illinois reported winter wheat harvesting in progress, and St. Louis reported the arrival in that market of the first carload of new wheat, which graded well.

Pittsburgh Coal stocks led the dealings on the local exchange, but the total transactions for the day were only 2,237 shares stock and $15,000 bonds. A block of 500 shares Pittsburgh Coal common changed hands at 18½, after smaller lots had sold at 17. The preferred sold to the extent of 280 shares at 73¼@73⅞, the close being 73⅝ bid, a slight net advance. Lustre Mining was strong and late in the day all the stock offering at 21 was absorbed. Tonopah Extension sold unchanged at $4.70. The steel stocks were extremely dull but steady. Pittsburgh Brewing common was in good demand at 26, but there were no offerings under 26¾, and no stock changed hands. A small lot of the preferred sold unchanged at 47, and $15,000 of the bonds sold at 114¾ @115. Westinghouse Electric second preferred closed at 83 bid, and a small lot of the preferred sold at 89⅝, an advance of 4⅝ points over last week. The declaration of the usual Switch and Signal dividends had no effect upon that stock. Fire Proofing preferred was firm at 34½. There was very little doing in the oil and gas stocks.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, June 14.—The market for coffee futures opened irregular at an advance of 5 points on one position, but generally unchanged to 5 points lower, and during the middle session ruled barely steady under continued Wall street liquidation, with prices 4 partial 5 points net lower. Toward the close, however, the market was rallied sharply by covering and European demand and was finally steady at a net advance of 5@10 points. Sales were reported of 58,000 bags, including July at 6.05@6.15c; September, 6.20@6.30c; October, 6.30@6.40c; December, 6.50@6.60c; January, 6.55c; March, 6.65@6.70c; May, 6.75c; spot Rio quiet; mild dull. Sugar, raw easy; fair refining, 3⅝c; centrifugal, 96 test, 4¼c; molasses sugar, 3⅜c; refined steady.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Up to yesterday a score of prominent New York stocks failed to show a single quotation recorded, and at the close of the day there were 85 stocks which are often active which did not figure on the sales board. Professional traders may deplore this evidence of investment and speculative apathy, but on the other hand it furnishes the proof that people who own stocks outright or who are carrying stocks on margin feel that prices will advance later on, or at least that nothing is to be gained by selling. Sentiment has been pretty thoroughly tested during the past six weeks by the reported lull in the iron trade, by the revelations in the Equitable Life, by the withdrawal of money from the open market in the shape of repayment of government deposits, and by the developments in foreign political circles. In addition there is prospective agitation over railroad rate regulation and the possibility of an opening of the tariff question. These factors, singly and combined, failed to start any liquidation by the actual owners of stocks. They have probably kept new buyers out of the market, but they have not alarmed security holders. A reasonable inference to be drawn from this situation is that the development of any good news will be followed or rather accompanied by advancing prices. At all events, with time money loaning as low as 3 per cent, as it did in New York this week, and with call loans plentiful at 2½ per cent, there is no inducement for institutions which are carrying large amounts of investment securities to convert the same into cash, and there is little to be gained by the individual investor in shifting from one group of stocks into another.

For the first time in several weeks quotations were made on Union Switch and Signal common, which closed at 77⅜ bid, 82¼ asked. This was the only response to the declaration of the usual quarterly dividend. There were no sales.

At the close of the local market two brokers each bid 26 for 500 shares Pittsburgh Brewing common. No stock was offered under 26¾.

Directors of the Home Trust Company have been re-elected as follows: A. C. Spindler, J. Alexander Hardy, H. B. Beatty, R. W. Allison, J. G. Spiane, Robert J. Davidson, F. T. F. Lovejoy, George W. Crawford, John F. Sweeny, H. M. Breckenridge, John L. Porter, F. M. Lowry, R. C. Hall and W. L. Hurd.

Local curb stocks: Fayette County Gas, 87 bid, 87½ asked; Union National Gas, 105¼ bid; Window Glass Machine preferred, 32 asked; Allegheny Traction, 50 asked.

A. G. C.—The stock of the Pittsburgh Natatorium Company is not listed on the exchange and there has been no public quotation on it this year.

A general estimate based upon 18-cent copper places the present earnings of Amalgamated Copper at between $7 and $8 a share.

The directors of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on the preferred stock, payable July 15.

Mergenthaler Linotype Company directors have declared a regular quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent, payable on and after June 30.

Minneapolis & St. Louis directors have declared a regular semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent, payable July 15.

The directors of the Continental Trust Company of Pittsburgh declared an initial dividend of 1 per cent, payable July 1.

The New York Central has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent, payable July 15 to holders of record June 30.

The directors of the Union Switch and Signal Company has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent on the preferred stock and 2 per cent on the common stock, payable July 10. Transfer books will be closed from July 1 to July 10, inclusive.

The directors of the Pittsburgh, Chicago, Cincinnati & St. Louis railroad have declared a semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent on the preferred stock and a semi-annual dividend of 1½ per cent on the common stock.

The Lake Erie & Western Railroad Company has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent on its preferred stock.

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway Company has declared the regular semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent.

During the year 1904 the Dominion Iron and Steel Company received from the Canadian government in bounties on pig iron, steel and ingots and steel wire rods $468,122. The Nova Scotia Steel Company received $134,097 on the same articles. The Dominion Steel Company received $1 80 a ton on products from foreign ore, and $2 70 a ton on articles made from Canadian ore.

Seaboard Air Line reports gross earnings for April of $1,189,044, an increase of $96,966. April net $382,718, an increase of $126,586.

The New York Central reports for the quarter ending June 30 a surplus after charges and dividends of $811,100, against a surplus last year of $147,209. For six months ending June 30, a surplus over dividends of $195,300, against a deficit in the corresponding half year of 1904 of $825,518.

The largest single transaction on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday was 500 shares Pittsburgh Coal common at 18½, Preston, Watt & Schoyer to Sproul & Co.

The New York correspondent of a Pittsburgh house wired this message: "It was reported yesterday that the Mutual Life was behind Ryan in the purchase of the Equitable. I hear on the very best of authority that there is no truth in that statement whatever, but that Mr. Ryan, who has made sufficient money for himself, has now taken the head of this institution, backed by great capitalists, to make a name for himself."

The collapse in Steel Foundries preferred was of little effect. The incident was regarded as the outcome of an ill-judged speculation based on unfounded hopes of dividend disbursements and aggravated by pressure by the lenders of the money which had been used in the speculation.

The strength and activity of the Japanese 4½s made them the feature of the New York bond market, which was otherwise dull and irregular. United States bonds were all unchanged on call.

In the Equitable Life matter the presentation of the report of the state superintendent of insurance is awaited. No further steps in the plan seem to be intended until the report appears and judgment on the efficacy and finality of the plans seems to await the same event. The importance attached to these matters is due perhaps to lack of any other obvious explanation of the intense stagnation in the stock market.

Weather conditions were reported favorable for the crops, but the stock market is not yet ready to respond to the day-to-day developments in the crop situation. Some more definite prospect as to the final outcome of the crop is what is desired and it is realized that time must be allowed for securing this.

The board will organize today and elect officers.

EQUITABLE'S AFFAIRS STILL TROUBLE MARKET

Bankers Wait to Hear How Purchasing Syndicate Will Safeguard Society.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 15.—The Herald this (Thursday) morning says:

There was a further sharp curtailment in the volume of business on the stock exchange yesterday. Prices underwent a partial recovery from the decline of the preceding day, but the dealings were professional, and no significance was attached to the price movement. Sentiment continued depressed over the failure of the public to give response to the recent favorable news, and this again was attributed more largely than to anything else to the failure of the Ryan syndicate, which purchased the Equitable Life Assurance Society, to disclose its identity or to make public its future plans to safeguard the future of the institution. The announcement that the state superintendent of insurance was investigating the deal was favorably regarded, but the fact that the public would have to wait for the information until Supt. Hendricks makes his report had the natural effect of checking all operations until information on points which Wall street desires to have cleaned up is forthcoming.

News developments of the day were not of a character greatly to stimulate the stock market, even had there been no deterrent influence at work calculated to hold enthusiasm in check. The market, however, gave more consideration to the unsatisfactory status of the purchase of the Equitable Life society by the Ryan syndicate than anything else. Practically no att

TURN MAY COME BY NEXT MONTH

Buying of Pig Iron Is Expected to Be Resumed in the Near Future.

MORE FURNACES GOING OUT

About 80 per cent of the furnace capacity of the United States Steel Corporation is now out of blast and before the month is ended several additional furnaces will be closed down. The number of independents that have quit the smaller, probably 20 per cent of the independent northern blast furnace capacity being in operation.

At the same time there is little lowering in price and it is possible that there will be a marked buying movement started in July. A number of the operators are looking forward to this prospect, and are confident of its realization. It is even predicted that the steel corporation will buy July iron from the merchant furnaces.

In the finished lines there is considerable inequality in the market. Structural material and wire are in active demand. Pipe, sheets, and some other lines are less active. The lines which go into railroad use are especially active, the enormous orders for steel cars having tied up the capacity of a number of the steel plate mills, while the locomotive orders have helped out in other lines. The rail mills are busy, but it is not expected that the orders this year will set a new record.

The rush of ore from the lower ports to the furnaces in this district is on. It is the expectation that a record-breaking tonnage will be brought down this year.

Probably the action of the corporation's furnace interests in bringing down so much ore has as much to do with the confidence of the furnace men generally in the situation as any one other factor. The steadiness of the price of Bessemer at $15.50, with only occasional small orders going as low as $15, reflects this confidence.

Current Quotations.

Pig Iron—Northern Bessemer, $15 50, furnaces.

No. 2 foundry—Northern, $15 25, furnaces; southern, $12 50 Birmingham.

Grey forge—Northern, $14 75@15 00, furnaces.

The Hardware Market.

The hardware market shows very considerable activity, orders from salesmen on the road and from the trade direct being very satisfactory and apparently increasing in volume as the season moves along. These orders embrace nice lines of season goods, the demand for which continues very active. Screen doors and windows, wire cloth, refrigerators, ice cream freezers, lawn mowers, hammocks and goods of like kind continue to move in good quantities. In addition an excellent business exists on builders' hardware, carpenters' tools and general lines. The demand for nails and wire is large, good quantities of these goods moving out every day. The glass market shows increasing firmness, owing to the nearness of the shut-down time, orders coming in for good quantities with liberal specifications. Prospects seem to be that prices will be higher in the very near future, owing to this same shutdown. Business in paints, oils, varnishes, brushes and sundries is moving very freely. The different business sales of bicycles and sundries are going along at a high point, and conditions show an excellent season in this particular line. Prices generally are firm, with no recent changes. The Bindley Hardware company furnishes the following quotations:

Columbia pocket knives, discount 35 per cent; Albion Hatchets discount 40 and 10 per cent; Bindley canal shovels, $8 50 the dozen; Great Western files, discount 70 and 10 per cent; sheet iron, base, No. 28, $2 25 the 100 lbs.; galvanized sheet iron, discount 10 and 10 per cent; sash weights, the ton, $27; window glass, first 3 brackets, 90 and 20 per cent off list October 1, 1901; next 3 brackets, 90 and 10 per cent off list October 1, 1901; Albion sewing machines, discount 25 per cent; blue and white enameled ware, 60 and 10 per cent; Albion gas stoves, 40 per cent; Albion lanterns, 40 per cent; fire shovels and pokers, 40 and 10 per cent.

PIG IRON MARKET STILL IS IN BUYERS' FAVOR

Producers Show Little Disposition to Force Material on an Unwilling Trade—Prices Slowly Recede.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 14.—(Special.)—The Iron Age tomorrow will say: Nothing occurred in the past week materially to change the attitude of buyers and sellers in the iron trade as a whole. The larger consumers of raw materials seem to be well covered for some time to come, and the producers show little disposition to force material on an unwilling market, particularly since they have contracts to take care of their output for months. Still the market is in buyers' favor in pig iron, and prices are slowly receding. Sentiment, which rules the situation today, is swayed by the belief that production is slightly in excess of requirements, and that we have a quiet period before us, during which the level must be found at which buyers will take hold with the usual rush.

Pig iron has receded to $12 for No. 2 foundry at Birmingham, and there are reports of concessions below that figure. Northern irons have declined correspondingly, but very little business has been done. Steel billets are easier in the leading markets.

In the steel rail trade, the most interesting fact is the admission that the Republic Company has taken orders for about 20,000 tons, and that negotiations for further tonnage are pending. It is reported that the rolling of rails will begin at the Youngstown mill in July.

In structural material, the largest order taken during the week is for 6,000 tons for the Deepwater system of Virginia. Chicago notes some fair building contracts and a lot of good work is coming up in nearly all the leading cities. In the Harbor lines the settlement effected between the Amalgamated association and the Republic Company indicates that there is little prospect of labor troubles in the iron branch.

Significant movements in the wire trade point to a consolidation of some of the interests. The manufacturers are to meet in Chicago next week. Skelp is weak cast and west. The export trade is being pushed more vigorously.

RASPBERRIES DROP TO A MUCH LOWER FIGURE

Aside from These There Were No Changes, and Markets Are Inactive.

There was little doing in any line in the local markets yesterday. Business was only fair. A heavy cut was made in prices of raspberries, and canteloupes were also marked down. Tomatoes look like a much better market towards the last of the week on choice stock and a sharp rise is expected by tomorrow. Aside from these there are no changes to note.

Cheese still holds firm and butter is in about the same condition it was this time last week. From this dealers are anticipating another reduction. Eggs are as firm as ever, but another week or 10 days is expected to bring a break.

In groceries there was a good trade yesterday, but no changes in quotations. Shading is still going on in the flour market and only small sales are being effected. At the northwestern mills business has not improved over what it has been for several weeks. Millers are unable to dispose of what they can grind.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts yesterday were: Pennsylvania lines, 12 cars hay, 9½ cars oats, 4½ cars corn, 2 cars straw, 1 car feed; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, 3 cars hay; Baltimore & Ohio railroad, 3 cars hay.

The market was quiet yesterday. Hay was dull and is marked down. There was a good demand on oats and corn was scarce. Receipts this week have not equalled the demand and the prices has been advanced a little.

SPREAD OF HARVEST WEAKENS THE MARKET

If Northwest Weather Is Favorable for Development of Spring Wheat.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 15.—Rapid northward spread of harvest operations caused weakness in the wheat market here today. At the close July wheat was off 4@4¼c. Corn is down 1@c. Oats show a loss of 4@4¼c. Provisions were practically unchanged.

Weakness in the wheat market was in evidence from the start. Notwithstanding higher prices at Liverpool, initial quotations here showed losses. July being down a shade at 84@c. The main factor in the situation was the continuation of excellent weather conditions. While there were slight rains in different portions of the southwest, the precipitation was not sufficient to delay harvesting. The area of operations was said to be extending rapidly, in the northwest weather was favorable for the development of spring wheat. Crop reports were conflicting and had a tendency to greatly restrict the volume of business. Trading was confined mainly to pit traders. Weakness became more pronounced as the session advanced, a slump at Minneapolis having a depressing effect here.

For July the lowest point was reached at 84@84c. The market closed weak with July down 3@3c at 82@c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 32,200 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,054,000 bushels, compared with 1,036,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,000 cars, against 1,000 cars last week, and 1,000 cars a year ago.

Sentiment in the corn pit was decidedly bearish. A number of factors entered into the situation to account for the selling pressure. One of the main influences, however, was the liberal acceptance by farmers of bids sent out by cash houses. In addition receipts were larger than estimated and the shipping demand showed signs of shortening. The market closed at the lowest point of the day. July opened ¼@¼c lower at 42@42c, sold between 42½@ and 42¾c, and closed at 42¾c. Local receipts were 26 cars, with 43 of contract grade.

Oats were weak partly in sympathy with other grain. Liberal receipts, with a large percentage of arrivals of contract grade, caused additional weakness. Longer was the price seller early, but opened unchanged to ¼c lower at 30@30½c, sold off to 30@30¼c, and closed at 30@30½c. Local receipts were 91 cars.

Provisions were a trifle easier as a result of the weakness of corn. A fair demand from packers for lard, however, prevented any material decline. Liberal receipts of hogs had a depressing effect on the price of product. Mess pork was off a made at $12 85. Lard was unchanged at 7½@7 47½. Ribs were up 2½c at $7 07½.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, none; corn, 300 cars; oats, 110 cars; hogs, 27,000 head.

OFFICER GLENN IS ACQUITTED

Echo of the Barton Vice Crusade Is Heard in Criminal Court.

"SHEENY HARRY'S" SALTY DOSE

Constable James E. Glenn of the Seventh ward, Marshall Ruff and Mary Smith, the latter two colored, were acquitted yesterday in criminal court on two charges of misdemeanor in interfering with an officer, but were ordered to pay half the costs. The prosecutors in the case were Constables Peter Ouslander and L. Saperstein, formerly connected with E. C. Barton's office, and half the costs was placed on them.

The suits are an echo of the vice crusade started by Alderman Barton in February, in which he endeavored to clean up the Seventh ward of disorderly resorts and gambling houses. One of the resorts raided was conducted by Mary Smith, in Poplar alley, and while she and 15 visitors arrested in the house were being given a hearing at the alderman's office Glenn was alleged to have broken down the door and allowed the prisoners to escape. Before the case was called for trial Mary Smith, the woman in the case, pleaded guilty to illegal liquor selling and keeping a disorderly house. On one charge she was fined $50 and costs and sentenced 60 days to the workhouse, and sentence was suspended on the other.

"Sheeney Harry's" Sentence.

Harry Wilson, alias "Sheeney Harry," one of the best known thieves in the United States, whose recent arrest in New York in connection with the Gilbertville (N. Y.) bank robbery, where $20,000 was stolen, led to his being returned to this city, where he was wanted, having jumped a bail bond, entered a plea of no defense to a charge of larceny. Wilson was charged with stealing a watch from the jewelry store of August Loch, on Federal street, Allegheny, last October. Wilson, with another man and a woman, was trying to rob the store when discovered by a clerk. Wilson was captured, but his companions escaped. He afterward made a sensational escape by jumping from a window of Supt. John Glenn's office, but was recaptured. He was sentenced two years to the workhouse.

Samuel Mallan was sentenced to serve seven years in the penitentiary. He held up and robbed James Kearns at Rosevale, near Carnegie, on March 18, and shot the latter in the neck when he resisted.

Other cases disposed of were: Columbus Zeller, false pretense, guilty; Nathan Jackson, assault and battery, 60 days to the workhouse; John Spratt, receiving stolen goods, pleaded guilty; Jacob Rubenstein, larceny, 60 days to the workhouse.

The appeal of N. G. McCrum, the owner of certain land condemned by the United States government for use in connection with the operation of Lock No. 1 in the Monongahela river, was on trial yesterday in the United States circuit court before Judge Buffington.

High Water Line in Dispute.

About one year ago a board of viewers awarded the plaintiff $17,000 damages, the property fronting Second avenue for 568 feet and varying in width up to 50 feet. A settlement of the case to a great extent depends upon the conclusion reached by the court regarding what constitutes the high water line. The government contends this should be the average flood line, whereas the attorneys for the plaintiff hold that the high water line established years ago by a state commissioner should be the one for the court's guidance. The latter line, at some places, makes a difference of 40 or 50 feet in the plot's width.

The testimony offered shows that the land is valued at from $1 to $2 per square foot. One real estate dealer said a conservative estimate of the value of the property included in the proceedings would be $41,000.

The case of the Commercial National bank of Steubenville, O., against the borough of New Kensington is still pending before Judge Buffington in the circuit court, with likely rendition today. The bank recognized certain warrants issued by the borough in connection with some street paving. A new council took exceptions to the contracts, claiming the citizens were being defrauded. This blocked payment and the bank seeks to recover the amount of the warrants.

The grand jury returned a true bill against Watson W. Mills, former secretary of the Wilkinsburg board of health, for embezzlement. The information is made by Burgess James Horner, who claims Jones received $55 from Harry Moule and did not account for it in his returns to the borough.

Wants Suit Tried First.

Theodore Geiselhart filed a bill in equity against the American Brewing Company, its directors and trustees, asking that an injunction be granted restraining the defendants from dividing and distributing the assets of the company until litigation brought by Geiselhart be adjusted. Geiselhart was induced to buy stock and was given a position as a collector. He alleges he was refused a certificate for the payment of his stock and the plant was sold to the Independent Brewing Company. He avers that he will be irreparably injured if a division of the assets is made before his suit is settled.

F. E. Shallenbarger filed a bill in equity against the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company to restrain the defendant from interfering with him in the erection of a pattern shop and warehouse in Preble avenue, Allegheny. The plaintiff was given the contract to build the plant for the defendant and trouble arose over the bond given. He claims the defendant has put others at work on the building which interferes with his work.

Judge Miller, sitting in the equity suit of Edgar Thomson Steel Company against C. L. Emerson and the Mortgage Banking Company, filed an opinion ordering a cancellation of an agreement for the purchase and sale of real estate and of a note given in part execution of the agreement, and directs the delivery of the collateral security now held by the defendants, as well as payment of the purchase money advanced.

Five Divorces Granted.

Divorces were granted in the cases of Eliza Hays against O. E. Hays, Anna Steinhauser against Adam Steinhauser, where cruelty was charged; Jennie R. Wilson against John Wilson, Perry F. Shafer against Eleanor M. Shafer and Helen C. Ruppert against Frank T. Ruppert, where desertion was charged.

A hearing was held in the equity suit of the borough of Homestead against the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, an action to restrain the railroad from laying tracks on Sixth avenue, Homestead. A preliminary injunction granted a few days ago was asked by the borough to be made permanent, but the court did not grant it, as it is thought the matter can be amicably adjusted, the company agreeing to act as though the injunction was granted.

The grand jury returned the following true bills: Embezzlement, John R. Gardley, W. V. Jones; felonious assault, John Hickenbottom, Elias Fairson et al.; larceny, Lawrence Luckert, John Hauch, Howard Hopkins, David Jones, Harry Knowles; false pretense, William Hill; larceny by bailee, John Logan; aggravated assault and battery, Quinney Holt, Andrew Knot; assault and battery, Edward Miller, Mary Johnston; nuisance, John Hill; malicious mischief, Frank Lamberta, G. S. Leonard; embezzlement, Walter Maxwell.

The will of Col. George W. Elkins was probated yesterday, but will not be on the records for a few days. The estate is said to be worth between $700,000 and $1,000,000. Col. Elkins' will provided that the income of his estate be divided among his widow and nine children during her lifetime, and upon her death the principal goes to the children. Attorney George C. Wilson has charge of the estate.

Stuff Case Is Private.

The first hearing in the case of John L. Stuff of Cincinnati against the Grant and Liberty Street Railway Company was held by Commissioner H. D. Gamble of the United States circuit court and the testimony will not be made public until it has all been taken. The court gave these instructions, because it might injure an innocent party before he had a chance to defend himself or explain the circumstances. Attorneys A. Leo Weil, George W. Guthrie and Starling Childs represented the Voters' civic league and James H. Beal and George E. Shaw of Reed, Smith, Shaw & Beal, the defendant company. The witnesses summoned yesterday were S. L. Tone, vice president of the Philadelphia Company, and W. H. Carson, secretary of the same meompany. They did not know why they had been summoned.
